829,000 IDLE AS PARLEY STALLS

Fight to Keep N. E. Utilities Going

New reports of threatened closing of factories and the layoff of thousands of workers came from all sections of New England today while the entire area prepared for a paralyzing industrial crisis as a result of the 38-day coal strike. Spokesmen for such non-priority industries as textiles, paper, chemical and tannery concerns said they fear a complete shutdown within two weeks.

The Regional Civilian Production Administration disclosed directives were expected today from Washington to avoid collapse of public utilities. This announcement followed predictions that Boston might experience a shortage of illuminaating gas within a week.

The drastic curtailment of freight and passenger service imposed on railroads was a factor in the threatened industry collapse because it will deprive many manufacturers of shipments of raw materials

For the second day, the New Haven railroad provided the only good news. Officials of that road announced the freight embargo of ODT would not affect their customers because of the fleet of Diesel and Diesel-electric engines.

Freight will be accepted and delivered at all stations and also will be accepted and delivered at all Diesel serviced points on the Pennsylvania, New York Central and Long Island railroads.

Unless the strike is settled shortly, all of the 1,394,000 persons employed in manufacturing and general industry in New England will soon be affected by the crisis in one way or another, business leaders asserted. Of these workers, 689,000 are employed in 7500 industries in Massachusetts.

Hundreds of railroad workers face enforced layoffs; thousands of textile workers in New Bedford may be jobless unless mills there get coal to keep operating, and similar problems confront the paper and woolen mills.

Although Ford Motor Co. announced a complete shutdown in Detroit, the order will not affect the 1500 employes at the Somerville plant immediately, officials said. However, E. L. Duquette, superintendent, said the plant may have to close later.

All soft coal supplies on docks remained frozen for vital services. Officials of the Boston Consolidated Gas Co. said the supply of illuminating gas will be endangered unless the strike is settled by next week. The New England Coke Co., Everett, is operating at 60 per cent of capacity, and spokesmen there said it will be unable to supply gas after June 3 unless the mines are reopened.

An official of the Eastern Gas & Fuel Associates said that by running at 60 per cent of normal, supplies could be stretched until June 3. He added, "It's a tough and delicate situation and we're in for real trobule unless the mines begin operating by next week."

Developments in the coal situation here today included:

The Army's release of 8000 tons of soft coal for use in Massachusetts; the prediction that some dairies in northern New England would soon be unable to process milk; the discovery in Dorchester of 500 tons of bituminous coal which have lain for 15 years at the Cow Pasture city pumping station.

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—Federal conciliators interrupted soft coal strike negotiations today for an hour-long confepence with Labor Secretary Schwellenbach. With more than 825,000 industrial workers forced into idleness, there was no hint of any impending "break" in the stalemated negotiations. The conciliators, Edward F. McGrady and Paul W. Fuller, declined to discuss the conference.

From the coal operators came word "no progress" had been made during the morning session toward endng the 38-day-old strike. John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers were standing pa ton ther orignal contract demands and the government was preparing new measures todeal with the coal shortage.

The negotiatng committees of operators and UMW representatives marked time while McGrady and Fuller conferred with Schwellenbach, then agreed to a brief recess.

Lewis was absent from the morning session. Vice-President John O'Leary said he did not know what had detained Lewis

The civilian production administration meanwhile rushed work on emergency measures to conserve dwindling coal supplies of gas utility companies.

An official said CPA expects to authorize utilizes using manufactured gas to curtail service.

The official said the agency's new office for emergency controls, set up to deal with the fuel crisis, is drafting a "permissive order" to utility firms affected by the coal shortage, most of them east of the Mississippi River.

Industry was hard hit.

Ford Motor Co. suspended virtually all operations indefinitely

Chrysler Corp. indicated it may follow suit.

The total of workers made idle, directly and indirectly, by the coal strike has already reached 829,000, classified as follows: UMW miners, 400,000; Ford employes, 110,000; railroad employes, 51,000; independent miners, 18,000; miscellaneous, 250,000.

Coal Paralysis Sweeps Nation

By the Associated Press

The number idle because of the 38-day soft coal strike zoomed past 800,000 today as the nation's industries, railroads and utilities strangled for lack of fuel. The snowballing effects of the prolonged stoppage leveled a blow at the nation's reconversion program that combined the impacts of both the recent steel and automotive strikes.

These were the main developments:

AUTOMOBILES — The Ford Motor Co. announced it was suspending virtually all operations indefinitely tonight because of the coal strike, shortage of parts and railroad transportation. The company said 110,000 workers would be affected. General Motors Corp. closed its electromotive plant at La Grange, Ill. Chrysler Corp. spokesmen reported the company's assembly line and body plant operations might suspend next week.

RAILROADS—The Ass'n of American Railroads estimated 51,000 railroad men have been laid off because of the strike and that another 100,000 will be laid off after May 15. Industries serviced by the railroads have laid off an estimated 250,000, the association said.

UTILITIES—The Civilian Production Administration set up an emergency office in an effort to keep all power, gas and water companies in operation.

Violence entered the mine strikes yesterday when one UMW picket was killed and six others injured at Harlan, Ky., in an outburst of gunfire involving progressive miners employed in the Benham coal mine of the International Harvester Co.

Meanwhile, the government failed in an informal attempt to get 400,000 of the idle coal miners back to work as the AFL-United Mine Workers' policy committee announced it stood back of John L. Lewis' demands for a health

GI Terminal Pay Gets First OK

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—Reversing a previous stand, the House Military Committee today approved legislation giving enlisted service personnel the same terminal pay rights that officers now have.

Coal Strike to Cut Baby Carriage Output

LEOMINSTER, May 8 (AP)—Even babies will feel curtailment of transportation due to the coal strike. The F. A. Whitney Carriage Co., one of the largest manufacturers of perambulators, today ordered all overtime work stopped and put a 40-hour week into effect to conserve coal.

Circus Coming Despite Rail Ban

The circus opens on schedule at Boston Garden, May 14, it was announced today just as the kids —and grownups, too—began to cuss in earnest John L. Lewis and the ODT.

Officials of the New Haven railroad stated the 100 circus cars will be hauled here from New York by diesel engines, with full approval of ODT.

Earlier, Frank Braden, press agent for Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey, had hinted some miracle was in the making to bring the big caravan of animals, aerialists, clowns and tons of equipment from New York.

"We'll get 'em here if we have to put on Seven League Boots," Braden promised.

PITTSBURGH, May 8 (AP)—Beer drinkers—already confronted with a shortage because of the government's grain conservation program — will be thirstier beginning tomorrow night because of the soft coal strike.

Rail shipments of out-of-state "suds" will cease under the freight embargo.

Fishermen Reject Arbitration Clause

Boston's fishing strike, now in its fourth month, was right back where it started today with fishermen and owners stalemated over contracts and arbitration in future disputes.

A speedy settlement had been predicted earlier when owners agreed to a price split of 60 per cent for fishermen on all catches.

Hope to break the deadlock rested in a meeting called by William F. Burke, regional conciliator of the U. S. Department of Labor, for later today at the Old South building.

Patrick McHugh, head of the Fishermen's Union, said today his men would not budge unless owners gave in on all demands.

The biggest stalemate is over a contract clause which provides that disputes will be settled by arbitration, putting an end to such costly troubles as have tied up the fleet all spring.

The union has demanded that this clause be amended to exclude from arbitration disputes over "quantity, quality and price of fish." Fishermen thereby seek to control the amount of fish brought into the market and thus keep prices at top levels.

McHugh said further that his men witsh to continue signing contracts with individual owners and not bargain with the Federated Fishing Boats of New York and Nen England, the organization which represents all owners.

Who's Next Victim Of Mad Sex Killer?

TEXARKANA, Tex., May 8 (AP)—Apprehension haunts every home in this aroused state-line city. With five brutal murders and one attempted murder unsolved, the question on everyone's lips is "Who will be next?"

The waitress spilled coffee into the saucer. "I'm sorroy," she apologized, "all these murders have given me the shakes. A couple of the girls are so hysterical they can't come to work."

"I hate to go outside this hotel," the woman elevator operator said.

"Bolt your door from the inside," the bellboy cautioned. "The meanest killer in the world is running loose in these parts."

"This city is living in an atmosphere of fear," Ranger Capt. M. T. Gonzaullas declared. "The man we are hunting is cunning, cold-blooded and unmerciful—a completely unscrupulous criminal of the worst type."

Generally believed responsible for the murder of five persons and the wounding of another, the man dubbed "The Phantom" has turned Texarkana into a city of sleuths. He has left two clues, his footprints and a flashlight, but has not left any witnesses.

"We are going on the possibility that this man may be a sex maniac," Arkansas Sheriff W. E. Davis said.

The slayings have followed a definite pattern. All of the six persons involved were shot in the head. In each of the double shootings a man and a woman were the targets. In at least two of the cases, the man was shot first.

Late in March, the bodies of Polly Ann Moore, 17, and Richard L. Griffin, 29, war veteran and war plant worker, were found in the rear seat of an automobile parked one mile outside Texarkana's city limits.

On April 14, the bodies of Betty Jo Booker, 15, and Paul Martin, 17, were discovered a mile apart, on lonely roads near Spring Lake Park. In the same area, their automobile was found.

Last Friday night, Virgil Starks, 36, was shot to death and his wife was seriously wounded by four shots fired into their farm home, 10 miles northeast of Texarkana. So deadly was the killer's aim that the four bullets left only two holes in a window pane.

"The man who fired those shots," he said, "was calculating."

Truman Hits Nuts, Morons Driving Cars

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—President Truman today criticized states that permit the "insane, nuts and morons" to drive automobiles without imposing minimum motor license requirements.

Mr. Truman departed from his prepared address before the Highway Safety Conference and strenuously urged all states to adopt minimum driving standards.

He said some states "are taking no steps to keep you and me from being killed by some moron that has no more right to be at the wheel of a car than he has to be at the trottle of an engine."

Student, Girl Injured In Crash, Youth Held

A Harvard senior and a Cambridge waitress were injured today in an auto crash on the Prison Point Bridge, near the Boston-Cambridge city line, which caused the arrest of another Harvard student on a dangerous driving charge. The injured are Wharton Hubbard, 24, of Adams House, Harvard, at Massachusetts General Hospital with forehead lacerations and a possible concussion, and Miss Ruth Martin, 27, of Armory st., Cambridge, under treatment of a physician at her home, for head injuries.

Ahira Cobb II, 20, of Euclid ave., Willoughby, O., a Harvard sophomore and son of a wealthy manufacturer, was arrested by Metropolitan Police.

Arraigned in East Cambridge district court, Cobb pleaded not guilty to charges of operating under the influence of liquor, driving to endanger and drunkenness. Judge Counihan ordered him held in $250 for hearing Friday, May 17.

Police said Miss Martin, a waitress at the Riverside Gardens, West End, was a passenger in the car of her employer, Frank L. Miraglia of Rice ave., Revere.

Miraglia reported he hailed a cab and sent Miss Martin home, then walked a quarter-mile to report the accident to police. MDC patrolmen found the two Harvard youths at the accident scene.

2 Irish Hunger Strikers Dying as One Breaks Fast

BELFAST, May 8 (AP)—Two former members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army were reported today to be so weak from prison hunger strikes that both might die.

David Fleming, imprisoned in Belfast, broke his 47-day fast Sunday and again yesterday when he took vitamin pills and orange juice.

"I have no desire to die," he said, but his condition was described as precarious.

John McCaughey, who has refused to eat until he either dies or is released from Maryboro prison in Dublin, was reported "very weak" on his 20th day of fasting.

Public meetings demanding the release of the two men are being held nightly in Dublin. Petitions on behalf of McCaughey have been ignored by Prime Minister De Valera of Eire and other government officials.

Fleming's case was brought up in the Northern Ireland Parliament Saturday, but the minister of home affairs declared "my idea of humanitarianism does not run to the release of a man who has attempted to murder a policeman."

Fleming is serving 12 years for treason and felony and McCaughey a life sentence for kidnaping and illegally imprisoning Stephen Hayes, IRA "chief of staff," who was accused by his comrades of turning informer in 1941.

Power Off, Yells Of Elevator Girl Block Traffic

An elevator operator with powerful lungs, stranded between floors without power, set up such a clamor today that rescue squads responded with enough equipment for a major catastrophe.

Traffic was blocked at Franklin and Batterymarch sts., with ambulances, fire wagons and patrol cars while stretchers were rushed into the Community Fund building, but no one had suffered as much as a scratch.

One of two elevators in the building slipped by the top floor without stopping, breaking a ceiling light bulb, causing the power to go off.

Mrs. Winifred Campbell, operator of the other elevator, had nearly reached the first floor, when it was stopped.

She started yelling and by the time she had squirmed out of the elevator the rescue squads were on the way.

McCormack Spurs Bill For War Vet Housing

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Reporter

WASHINGTON, May 8—Cong. John W. McCormack today urged the House committee on banking and currency to act speedily and favorably on his bill to increase the unit cost for federal housing projects and grant housing preference to veterans. In an unusual move, the committee suspended other business to hear the McCormack bill after the House majority leader declared construction of 80 big projects throughout the nation—two of them in Boston—depended on its passage.

McCormack was the first and chief speaker before the committee, headed by Cong. Brent Spence of Kentucky and including 28 members.

The bill would amend the 1937 Housing Act by increasing the unit cost of $1000 a room to $1250 a room in projects built in cities of 500,000 or more. Affected in Boston are the planned Cathedral and South Boston housing projects.

It also would grant preference to veterans and their families for the next four years in obtaining such federally built homes.

"There are many cities, including Boston, that are ready to proceed immediately with the development of low rent housing projects and thus alleviate the acute housing shortage," McCormack told the committee.

"In many cases they have the sites, the plans have been prepared and the award of contracts to the best bidders is being considered. But the work cannot go ahead because under present building conditions no contract can meet the cost limitations set by the present housing act.

"We want to substitute new maximums of $1000 a room for cities with population less than 500,000 and $1250 a room for cities in the nation's larger cities. Speed is one element that is essential. The sooner we get these projects built the sooner vetcrans can have the homes they deserve."

He said the 80 projects planned cannot go forward unless provision is made for increased building costs.

Included in the 80 projects are developments ranging from 50 to the top of 990 units planned for South Boston.

No Bases, No British Loan, Senator's Plea

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, May 8 (INS)—Sen. McFarland (D.) of Arizona called on the Senate today to "begin to show some common sense" by making the British loan contingent upon acquisition of bases in British territory.

McFarland, speaking in support of his amendment, insisted Britain agree to work out a settlement of her World War I debt to the United States before obtaining the 3¾ billion dollar credit.

He urged the Senate to "make certain now that there are not hanging over the present arrangements old and irritating wounds."

He said permanent acquisition of military bases built by this country during the war and commercial rights at other U. S.-built outposts would guarantee "freedom of transportation and communications."

McFarland's amendment provides the loan agreement shall not become effective until Congress has approved agreements covering permanent acquisition by the United States of bases held under 99-year lease; peacetime commercial use of such other bases built by the U. S., "as may be agreed upon." The phrase "as may be agreed upon" was a last-minute modification by McFarland and was regarded by many senators as weakening his proposal.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY
Copyright, 1946, King Features Synd., Inc.

LET US PUSH aside the exciting headlines and the irritating news stories to peer beneath them for some answer.

What is happening not to the government, not to great names and busy personalities, not to our rulers nor to the common people, if such there be, but to the individual American?

For instance, the other night I went to see that excellent bit of Americana, "The Red Mill," in a theater where they still begin the evening with "The Star-Spangled Banner."

My eyes caught a naval officer in a box talking to his very pretty companion while the national anthem was being played.

He was not at attention. Of course, he may be on terminal leave, but he was in uniform and his posture and attitude were sloppy.

His mind was equally sloppy, for were it not so, the first note would have brought him to attention.

IT WAS LIKE the sloppiness of mind of New York politicians who permitted veterans in military and naval uniforms to march in the Communist parade in full regalia on May 1, in spite of the political nature of the demonstration and the subversive character of the slogans and signs borne by the demonstrators.

The uniform is a symbol of the nation. All authorities agreed that it was illegal to wear the uniform under those circumstances, but all agreed that they would do nothing about it.

There are votes in "them thar hills" for some sloppy-minded politicians who would rather hold office in a country astray than perform a clear but unpleasant and vote-losing duty.

OR TAKE the OPA publicity that Chester Bowles does with public money. It is clearly against the law. That money was appropriated for specific purposes and for no other.

But it is the function of Congress to enact legislation, to establish government bureaus and to abolish them, to lay down the fundamental policy for this nation.

It is the function of administrative officials to execute the law as passed by Congress—AND NO MORE.

If one of these ambitious great minds cannot do that, he should resign. But he may not, under the law, while in the government employ, stimulate a pressure upon the Congress.

DOES THE LAW make any difference to Chester Bowles or the thousands of office-holders, some of whom are fighting as much for their jobs as for principles?

The OPA was supposed to keep prices down and has succeeded in developing a Black Market for the goods that cannot possibly be sold under their ceilings and disappear from the usual market.

Congress, and not Mr. Bowles or the OPA or even the President, under the American constitutional system, is responsible for determining what should be done about that.

But Mr. Bowles illegally is conducting at public expense a campaign to confuse the people and to lessen the authority of Congress.

THE OTHER DAY I saw that Henry Wallace had said that we Americans, except for our language, owe no more to Great Britain than to Soviet Russia.

Now, Henry Wallace may love Russia; that is his privilege and his right. But that statement represents sloppy thinking.

Ours is an Anglo-Saxon civilization: The King James version of the Bible, English common law, Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights, Shakespeare, Milton, the Puritans, Byron, Shelley, Keats, John Locke, David Ricardo, Adam Smith, John Stuart Mill, the Colonial charters—everything that is fundamental in our lives came to us via England.

Not a single cultural, spiritual, emotional element in American life comes to us from Russia.

Palestine, Rome and Ireland—yes. Russia, Germany and any other country—NO.

Mansour was arrested early this morning by FBI agents in a tourist cabin at Lawrenceville, N. J. He will be charged with violating the federal escape act. When he escaped he was under a charge of robbery.

Fugitive Nazi Bands Sack Carpathians

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, May 8 (AP)—Outlawed bands have brought such a reign of terror to the Carpathian foothills in the borderlands of Poland, Slovakia and the Ukraine that a state of emergency akin to martial law has been proclaimed.

Czechoslovak authorities believe the men are led by four or five fugitive German generals.

Advices from Poland said four villages near Sanok were reported burned, forcing 5000 peasants to flee, and that 800 men with automatic weapons, grenades and dynamite blew up the Bukowsko courthouse, chased the town's residents into the hills and razed the town.

A Slovak government source said that the final redoubt of German defense, which many had believed would be the Berchtesgaden region, actually came into being in the Carpathians around Dukla Pass, 20 miles from Sanok.

Numerous SS (Elite Guard) ramnants are in the region, along with portions of the forces of Russian Lt. Gen. Andrei A. Vlassov, who fought on the German side.

Episcopalians Would Relax Divorce Curb

A new marriage ceremony for divorced communicants of good standing in the Episcopal Church was favored today by the committee on Holy Matrimony, in a report delivered by its chairman, Rev. William Brewster, headmaster of St. Mark's School, at the 161st diocesan convention in session at New England Mutual Hall.

This suggestion, not contained in the present canon or the proposed one, would make some provision for a special blessing in case one of the party had been divorced.

"The minister would use some service, decidedly private, and different from the service in the common prayer for such cuoples. Then they would not have to go to a justice or the peace or to a minister of another church," Rev. Brewster explained.

The committee unanimously favored that the adultery exception should be removed from the canon, as the new proposed canon provides.

"We are of this opinion because of its doubtful scriptural basis, according to scholars, and therefore it does not seem to have been in the mind of Christ; and also because we do not see why one particular moral failure, gross as it is, is more reason for divorce than other types of spiritual disloyalty," he said.

"Another reason for our opinion is that an air of legalism surrounds the whole operation of interpreting this particular exception and omitting the exception seems to be closer to the mind of Christ," he continued.

The committee said the main object of the church was to uphold the sancity of marriage and that legislation was needed for people who, through no fault of their own, were divorced.

Two resolutions were made and referred to a committee which will take action later in the session. One was that the Episcopal and Presbyterian churches merge, and the other, that the United Nations be strengthened into a world federated government.

Bishop Henry Knox Sherrill announced new parishes had been given mission status. They are St. John the Evangelist, Duxbury; St. Andrew's, Framingham; St. Cyprian's, Boston, and the Church of the Holy Spirit, Orleans.

English High Grads In Birthday March

Under threatening skies, more than 1000 old grads of English High School, representing classes back to that of 1873, today marched through Boston's Back Bay in a parade marking the 125th anniversary of the old South End school.

Behind the cadet corps of 2400 undergraduates, the men who came from all parts of the United States for the celebration marched along, waving greetings to old friends and joining arms with schoolmates of yesteryear.

The parade formed on Boston Common near Charles and Beacon sts. Here the returning grads gathered in groups and renewed acquaintances which have been neglected since high school days.

Oldest marcher in the parade was Col. John J. Barry, 80, of Dudley st., Dorchester, a member of the class of 1882 and a veteran of both the Spanish American War and World War I.

Following Col. Barry came three members of the class of '83, two from '84, five from '86 and five from '88. Then the numbers increased as class after class marched along.

George W. Rowbottom, now living in Alabama, was attired in the uniform he wore as a drum major in the school parade of 1893.

Dist. Atty. William J. Foley swung along with the class of 1904, and former Lt. Gov. Horace T. Cahill was with the grads of '13, all wore baseball caps, recalling the championship baseball teams of those years.

Judge Paul G. Kirk marched with the class of '22; Paul W. Litchfield, chairman of the board of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., marched with the members of the class of '92. Gen. Charles G. Cole, chairman of the State Board of Conciliation and Arbitration, and Police Commissioner Col. Thomas F. Sullivan were also in line.

The parade proceeded along Beacon st. to Dartmouth and across Copley sq. past a reviewing stand on the steps of the Public Library, and continued along Dartmouth to the school building on Warren ave.

Headmaster Walter F. Downey stood beside Gov. Tobin in the reviewing stand. Also in the stand were Judge Joseph W. Tomasello, Henry M. Smith, chairman of the reunion committee; Gen. Cole, who acted as honorary chief marshal of the parade; Police Comr. Sullivan and other notables.

Later in the day an alumni committee will turn over to trustees of the endowment fund a gift of $100,000 as a tribute to the 5500 English High School boys who served in World War II and to the 223 who died in the service.

The gift will be made at the alumni dinner in Mechanics Building this evening. At the same time Judge Kirk, who will act as toastmaster, is expected to announce plans to use $10,000 of the gift for a war memorial.

Tobin in Guard Hangar Move

Despite protests of former Army fliers htat the building is needed for the use of a National Guard air wing, Gov. Tobin today asked the legislature for immediate action to enable the state to transfer the Guard building at Logan Airport to the federal government for the processing of international air passengers.

In a special message the governor said the adjutant general's department was willing to grant the State Department of Public Works use of the building. He pointed out, however, the Public Works Dept., in turn could not grant permission to the federal government to use the building, under exixsting state laws.

Tobin said that with huge four-motored planes now using the building was essential for the processing of passengers from foreign countries passing through this port of entry.

Deer Lawn Party

When Mrs. Francis S. Cobb of Bullard lane, Dedham center, looked out her window today she could hardly believe her eyes when she saw a family of deer breakfasting on the new grass of her front lawn.

She called her husband to witness and he caught sight of the buck, doe and little fawn before they bounded off in the underbrush of the Charles River lowland.

Natick Minister Felled 2nd Time By Famine Diet

Great dreams of how we should feed Europe swam today in Rev. Albert K. Herling's dizzy mind, as he took a walk around his bedroom in Natick and then collapsed into bed again.

"I sure was surprised when I folded up the second time," he said in a very shaky voice over the phone to a Boston American reporter questioning him on the results of his starvation diet of 1000 calories a day, equivalent to that of the hungry people of Europe.

"I have a greater appreciation of the problem," he said.

Yesterday his physician ordered him to bed when his pulse increased and he had severe dizzy spells.

"I had mackerel for supper sweet potato, spinach, stewed corn, apricots," he added in a tone growing more enthusiastic.

"And breakfast of cream o wheat, bananas and cream, coffee with sugar and cream

Vows His Love, But Agrees to Wife's Divorce

In a letter telling of hardship but vowing undying love, Robert E. Fessenden of St. Petersburg, Fla., today cleared the way for a Suffolk Probate Court divorce for his wife, Mrs. Lillian Fessenden of Pleasant st., Dorchester.

Judge John V. Mahoney granted a decree on ground of cruelty after hearing the petitioner testify about her husband's drinking bouts and beatings. But he looked long at a letter written by the defendant, which stated in part:

"I love my wife desperately and my head tells me to contest this action. But my heart won't let me. I have had hard luck, suffering a fractured pelvis and more recently the loss of three fingers.

"She can have her divorce, but I pray that some day she will come to her senses and that we will be reunited."

Mrs. Fessenden was represented by Atty. William S. Kinney.

Husbands Plead in Vain to Join Women's Legion Post

SWAMPSCOTT, May 8 (AP)—The only known all-male American Legion Auxiliary was tactfully campaigning today to win recognition from the all-female Swampscott ex-servicewomen's Post 243.

"We're now operating ex-officio because the post won't give us a charter, but we won't put up a fight—just beg it as a favor," plaintively reported Auxiliary Vice-President Charles E. Neilan of Cambridge.

With the slogan "more Legion auxiliaries with better looking men," Neilan said he and auxiliary head William Jennings, Lynn, had asembled a membership of nine husbands.

Included in the affiliated ex-servicemen's post are Yeomen (F)—Navy girls of World War I—Army nurses of both world wars, WAVES, WACs and SPARS.

"As all our members are vets who already belong to a legion post we have a perfect right to join the auxiliary," said Neilan.

"Not that we're stressing that point," he added, hastily, "We're just telling the girls with tears in our eyes that we want to join because they've got such a high class outfit."

AT COMMUNION BREAKFAST—The two-day 161st annual convention of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts continued today with communion services at St. Paul's Cathedral. Out-State Trio Admitted to Bar

Three out-of-state lawyers were admitted today to the Massachusetts bar by Supreme Court Justice Stanley E. Qua.

Mrs. Sally Alpert Cohen, 28, a native of Washington, D. C., now living in Harris st., Brookline, was one. She is a graduate of the Washington College of Law and served from 1936 to 1938 as secretary to Benjamin D. Cohen, advisor to President Roosevelt.

The mother of two children, she was assistant attorney in the New England regional office of the OPA from 1942 until she resigned last May.

Also admitted were Maj. Paul Marcus Siskind, 31, of Broadway, Cambridge, a member of the New York bar, and Robert F. Levin, 36, a member of the Pennsylvania bar.

DuPont Perfects New Car Lacquer

DETROIT, May 8 (AP)—A new lacquer, developed by chemists of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. who described it as the most durable ever produced, was shown here today as an auto body finish.

The chemists, who call the new finish "Duco" metalli-chrome nitrocellulose lacquer, said it had been made possible by a new pigment technique and manufacturing process. The finish gives off a deep-glowing luster with a wide color variation.

The finish was shown on a dozen 1946 model autos more than 200 variations of gray, green and brown were displayed.

The chemists said the extreme durability of the new finish was totally unexpected. It was developed in the du Pont laboratories in Parlin, N. J., where the original "Duco" was born in 1923.

Grain Price Rise Famine Aid Plan

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—With the nation's default in famine relief shipments soaring toward the million-ton mark, the Administration was reported today to have decided on a new price formula for getting more grain from livestock feed bins for human food.

Announcement of the new program was expected soon, possibly before nightfall, and officials at the Agriculture Department said it probably will involve an upward readjustment in the ceiling prices of grain and livestock feeds. One of the major causes of the current shortage of wheat for food has been heavy use of this grain for livestock feed.

Many farmers have reported they could make more money feeding grain to livestock at present ceiling prices than by selling it as grain.

Saudi Arabia King Brands Palestine Plan a 'Betrayal'

By W. E. CURTIS

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia, May 8 (AP)—King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia, terming the British-American inquiry committee report on Palestine a "betrayal," declared today, "I cannot advise Arabs longer to keep quiet."

The monarch, regarded at the foremost leader of the Arab world because of his position as protector of the cities of Mecca and Medina, told the Associated Press in an exclusive interview:

"We still hope the American and British governments won't put these recommendations into effect, because then the betrayal will be complete.

"I have been doing my best to convince Arabs to work hand in hand with the Allies because I was certain that one day justice would be done. But now we feel these recommendations are a betrayal."

He said he "recognized that something must be done to help the Jews in Europe" but indicated he felt it was a problem the entire world should solve.

Coal

tempers grew shorter, and support gathered behind demands that strike control legislation get No. 1 priority unless a prompt end to the coal shutdown is effected.

Civilian Production Administrator John D. Small, meanwhile, set up an office of emergency controls "to avoid collapse of utilities services essential to public health and safety during the coal strike."

He named Edward Falck, formerly director of war utilities for the War Production Board, to direct the task, and the two communicated immediately with governors, local regulatory commissions and officials of states most likely to be affected.

Brownouts and dimouts were imposed by community after community across the country in an effort to conserve fuel stores.

Miners to Defy U. S. Even If Mines Seized

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 8 (AP)—The miners, "only individuals in the world that can mine," won't go to work even if the government seizes operations in the bituminous and anthracite field, Leonard Statkewicz, president of Local 2444, United Mine Workers of America (AFL), told Sen. Lucas (D.) of Illinois in a letter.

Lucas has proposed seizure of the mines.

"We, the miners, are determined to have safety measures as well as the health fund included in our new contract," Statkewicz said.

He called John L. Lewis "our servant" who "is carrying out our wishes in regards to a new contract" and "we are behind him 100 per cent."

Eccles Sees Coal Crisis As Threat to Public

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—Marriner S. Eccles said today "violent" labor strife in key industries threatens the public safety and the government should have some means of controlling disputes.

The Federal Reserve Board chairman, appearing before the Senate banking committee to urge a year's extension of price control, testified:

"No group, no leaders, ever have the right to inflict such injury upon the general public. Dictators assume such a right. It has no place in a Democracy."

Describing full production as the country's chief need, Eccles said that already too much time has been lost because of "paralysis of vital industry—coal, steel, lumber, automobiles, among others."

Virginia Blacks Out All Amusements in Crisis

RICHMOND, Va., May 8 (INS)—The Virginia public utilities commission today banned the use of electricity by amusement places after midnight tomorrow. The order affects motion picture theaters, amusement parks, dance halls and all other resorts.

Roundup

and welfare fund and other concessions.

Detroit, Chicago and Washington were major cities observing brownout restrictions while other urban centers considered similar measures to conserve fading coal supplies. The industrial management council and retail merchant's council at Rochester, N. Y., adopted a resolution calling for a brownout May 17. A revised coal supply estimate gave Philadelphia a four-week reprieve from an expected dimout.

The Indiana Municipal League, representing 535 towns and cities, sent messages to President Truman and John L. Lewis declaring the operation of every waterworks in the state is dependent on electricity or coal, and asked that steps be taken to "make some arrangement whereby our municipalities can pump water for fire protection and public health."

The New York city police commissioner, Arthur W. Wallander, yesterday ordered an immediate survey of all reserve soft coal supplies in industrial plants, office buildings and other commercial structures.

In New Jersey, the state board of public utility commissioners said Gov. Walter E. Edge will be asked to proclaim a state of emergency if the strike continues beyond May 13.

Effects of the stoppage spread to publications as Time Magazine announced its May 13 issue was cut from its usual size because the Chicago power curtailment prevented a capacity run by its presses.

A war assets administration director in Dallas, Tex., disclosed that between 80,000 and 85,000 tons of bituminous coal, sold to nine foreign countries, is being exported through gulf ports.

F. J. Walls, president of the American Foundry Ass'n, declared that every grey iron or malleable foundry in the United States will be shut down within 30 days unless the coal strike ends swiftly.

The nation's railroads, faced with a government order to curtail passenger service 25 per cent by May 10 and 50 per cent by May 15, were rapidly slicing schedules.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad announced discontinuance of 22 passenger trains, effective May 10, and said 27 more will be dropped May 15. Nickel Plate cancelled trains nine and ten from Cleveland to St. Louis.

Other railroads announcing May 10 cancellations were the Chicago and Northwestern which eliminated 10 trains and suspended weekend operations of four others, and the Erie Railroad, which suspended two baggage express trains, two passenger trains and 38 commuter trains.

Bill Would Provide Gold Star Histories

WASHINGTON, May 8 (AP)—A complete historical record of every person in the armed services killed during World War II will be provided next of kin if a bill introduced by Sen. Myers of Pennsylvania is approved by Congress.

The bill would create a national commission on war memorials to serve without pay. It would prepare an "adequate" individual history of each war casualty at an estimated cost of $20.

U-Boat Shortage Told by Doenitz

NUERNBERG, Germany, May 8 (AP)—Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz testified today that the German Navy was so unprepared for the recent war that, in one month, it was able to send only two submarines.

The former Germany navy commander on trial with 22 others, told the International Military Tribunal that the outbreak of the war found Germany with only 30 or 40 U-boats, of which only a third could be used at a time.

He said the navy discontinued work on capital ships, except those nearing completion, and concentrated on building submarines.

Italian King Due to Abdicate, Crown Prince Stands Pat

By MICHAEL CHINIGO

ROME, May 8 (INS)—Crown Prince Humbert acknowledged today that King Victor Emmanuel is going to abdicate the Italian throne soon, but said that he himself is not going to renounce it.

The lieutenant-general of the realm declared in an exclusive interview that he is confident the people will decide to keep the monarchy in the June 2 referendum.

The king planned his abdication today, a day after the scheduled return from Paris of Premier Alcide de Gasperi. But the premier did not return, probably forcing a brief postponement of the king's momentous move.

In Paris De Gasperi said he was not surprised at the abdication move but refused other comment. He plans to return to Rome soon, possibly today.

Prince Humbert said he had exerted no pressure to influence the decision of his father, adding that when the move is made it "will be only because he will be convinced that by so doing he will best serve the interests of the nation."

Regarding the June 2 referendum on the monarchy versus a republican form of government the prince said:

"Reports reaching me from well-informed circles gives me the conviction that the monarchy can count on a majority of the Italian people."

Then he added:

"If a majority wants a republic I certainly have no intention of opposing their decision."

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School.

Q—On what kind of soil should lima beans be planted?

A—Lima beans seem to give best results when planted on light sandy soils. Select the poorest part of the garden for this crop and it will give a good return.

Q—Can raspberries be grown on wet soil?

A—Most of the raspberry root system develops in the upper two feet of soil. This crop will not thrive on poorly drained soil or soils with a high water table.

Q—What is the best variety of raspberry to plant for home use?

A—Latham is probably the leading variety of red raspberry in this section. It does well on our soils and is quite resistant to mosaic if healthy plants are used.

Q—In setting out trees purchased at the nursery, should the ball of earth be broken when planting?

A—No. The best practice is to dig the hole large enough to set tree. Place in hole, cut string holding the burlap, and then cover it right in. The less you disturb the root, the better it is.

Q—How many eyes or buds should be left on a potato piece when cutting?

A—It is best to cut potatoes so that each piece will have two eyes.

Q—Is it necessary to fertilize the strawberry bed during the bearing season?

A—If a bed was well fertilized during the previous season and grew well, it will not need fertilizer during the second year, at least not until after the bearing season is over. If you plan to renovate the bed, by all means feed the plants with a complete fertilizer.

Atomic Stock Piles Seen Aid to Health

By HOWARD BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, May 8 (AP)—The atomic ovens, or piles as scientists call them because their bulk is mainly a pile of graphite bricks, may become health sanatoria.

All that is necessary to make their rays available for treatment of disease is to cut through the massive concrete walls shielding the piles at Hanford, Wash., Oak Ridge, Tenn., Ardennes, Ill., and elsewhere.

The methods are told in the bulletin of the atomic scientist of Chicago. The Hanford piles are great cubes of graphite surrounded and covered by walls of concrete about three feet thick. These walls confine radioactive rays equal to hundreds of tons of radium, and neutron rays equal to thousands of great cyclotrons.

The rays issuing through a port in a wall would be fatal instantly to anyone standing at the port but would be made harmless by filter plates which filter the energies down to the dosage that physicians require.

Many patients could be treated at one time, since the intensity of rays is sufficient to fill many channels, one for each person, and for the first time the rays of radium and X-rays would become really cheap. For the first time, also, there would be a large supply of neutron rays, not given off by radium.

Byrnes Urges 21 Nations Save Big 4 Fiasco

By PIERRE J. HUSS

PARIS, May 8 (INS) — Sec. Byrnes, apparently disgusted that the first anniversary of V-E Day should find peace preparations moving at snail's pace, today asked the Big Four foreign ministers to call the Paris peace parley June 15.

Determined to create peace in Europe, Byrnes urged his fellow conferees to set the June 15 date for the 21-nations conference, regardless of failure of the Big Four to agree beforehand on treaty drafts.

Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov, while pointing out that the drafts should be completed in advance, did not flatly reject Byrnes' proposal. He said he would consult Moscow on the proposal.

Byrnes contended that the main purpose and desires on this first V-E Day anniversary is to establish peace, adding that, simply because the foreign ministers failed to reach understandings on major problems, there is no reason to abandon the peace conference.

He said it is more important to have the conference than to quit efforts to make peace just because one method did not succeed.

4000 GI's in Rhine V- Day Parade

By DANIEL DE LUCE

FRANKFURT, May 8 (AP) — Four thousand American troops paraded today with two machine-guns and a few hundred rifles in this bomb-scarred city in observance of the first anniversary of V-E Day, as shabbily-clad German civilians watched in stony silence.

The parade in the headquarters city of the U. S. occupation zone featured only two armored vehicles, both light patrol cars. German onlookers exchanged amazed whispers. A few doffed their hats when the American flag passed.

White scarved, steel helmeted volunteers of the 508th Parachute Inf. Reg. were the only tactical unit in the procession.

Several hundred soldiers of the headquarters detachment strode weaponless at the heels of a military police battalion and in front of a company of WACs and jeeps loaded with Red Cross girls.

The parade wound along rain-dampened cobblestones streets from the main river to the I. G. Farber building, where Gen. Joseph T. McNarney took the salute.

Yanks and French Join In V-E Day Celebration

PARIS, May 8 (INS)—The first anniversary of the signing of the German surrender at Reims was commemorated jointly by American and French forces in a brief ceremony at the Arc de Triomphe today.

Maj. Gen. Robert M. Webster, European air transport command, placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier as representatives of the French war ministry looked on.

An honor guard of American soldiers, sailors and marines was mounted for the ceremony. An ATC band played the American and French national anthems.

VFW Draws Up Bill To Guard Job Rights

By DAN MARKEL
Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, May 8—Iron-clad job rights for veterans were riveted today by the Veterans of Foreign Wars into a master bill covering all phases of veterans' employment, private or public. The legislation will be presented to Congress at once, R. K. Christenberry, chairman of the VFW National Legislative Committee, announced.

Penalties up to five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fines, or both, would be imposed on individuals or groups guilty of acts or conspiracies depriving honorably discharged veterans of their rightful re-employment.

"We have sought to make this bill so clear cut that there can be no possibility of misinterpretation," Christenberry said with obvious reference to persistent attempts of some government agencies and labor organizations to scuttle veterans' job guarantees under present law.

"It is the intention of the VFW to put on the federal statute books a law compelling mandatory performance of the promises Congress made to our fighting men when they went to war."

The present reemployment statute, and the rights it carries will automatically expire a week from tomorrow unless Congress extends Selective Service, VFW pointed out.

The existing rights are embodied in the Selective Service Act, expiration of which will leave veterans with no reemployment rights at all.

VFW, instead of seeking mere renewal of the present guarantees, asks that job rights be strengthened by a law "with teeth in it."

Jamaican Laborers Go Ritzy in Maine

PORTLAND, Me., May 8 (AP) — Ten of 43 Jamaicans who staged a protest about prevailing farm wages were quartered at the YMCA today while state and federal labor officials sought to settle complaints that beds at their assigned Cape Elizabeth farms were unsatisfactory. The 43 refused to leave their railroad car yesterday for several hours.

Ten returned later to Union Station asserting mattresses given them at the farms had no ticking.

The Jamaicans said they received 75 cents an hour and contended on learning the prevailing pay here was 50 cents that living costs were higher and that they required heavier clothing here.

Cut Highway Toll, Truman Warns

WASHINGTON, May 8 (INS) — President Truman warned today that the federal government would take action to halt the tragic toll of highway deaths if they continue unchecked.

The chief executive told a national conference of state and federal leaders assembled in Washington to seek safety on the highways:

"The challenge must and will be met. The nation cannot afford and will not tolerate this tragic waste of human resources."

"I don't know what we're going to do—you just can't get men's shirts!"

Navy Details Charge 5 U. S. Sailors Sabotaged Jap Ship

PEARL HARBOR, May 8 (AP) —Court-martial specifications were prepared today against five U. S. Navy crewmen accused of sabotaging the Japanese cruiser Sakawa en route to Bikini, thereby endangering the lives of their shipmates.

Com. L. W. McConnaughay, director of discipline for the 14th Naval District here, announced preparation of charges but said he was not yet ready to report their exact nature. The five were held as prisoners-at-large.

Lt. David Merrill, Hartford, Ct., chief engineer aboard the Sakawa as she made her hazardous 40-day cruise to Bikini to become an atomic bomb target, said sabotage occurred on April 5, 6 and 7 at Eniwetok.

Crewmen, he said, knocked out the ship's fuel system, smashed instruments and valves, and cut high pressure steam lines, so "if anyone had walked in front of that leak, it could have cut them in two."

McConnaughay said the accused men had hoped to be released from duty aboard the filthy warship. He named the five as Fireman 2c Larry W. A. Lajoie, Chicago; Fireman 1c Stanley J. Berrent, Baltimore; Fireman 2c Robert J. Eby, Lansdowne, Pa.; Seaman 2c Lloyd E. Faulkner, Baltimore, and Seaman 2c William N. Lambright, Jr., East Palestine, O.

If the Sakawa could legally be termed an American ship, McConnaughay said, damaging it willfully could be punishable by death.

The Sakawa's voyage from Japan was a 40-day tale of woe, Pearl Harbor officers related. They termed it "a remarkable exhibition of seamanship" that she reached Bikini.

Merrill said the odor aboard the filthy ship was "horrible"; that failing refrigeration afforded only a 12-day supply of perishable foods; that the cruiser exhausted her fuel before reaching Eniwetok, and that, after being towed in, the crew had only one small boat for bringing fresh supplies and affording the crew recreation ashore.

The Japanese battleship Nagato, making the same trip, took 44 days to reach Bikini; she, too, ran out of fuel, her electric power failed and eight of her boilers blew out.

Parade

RAY OF HOPE IN DARK SKY

THE EFFECT of the bituminous coal strike on highly industrialized New England is calamitous indeed.

Nearly 1,400,000 workers, most of whom have never seen a coal mine, face joblessness.

Railroad service is seriously curtailed, inflicting great hardship and actual suffering on thousands.

Manufacturing operations essential to the nation's immediate prosperity and to the lives of innumerable hundreds starving in Europe are dangerously imperiled.

Hospitals, schools and religious and charitable institutions are jeopardized.

New England, lacking coal, petroleum and natural gas, is completely at the mercy of the far-away, strike-ravaged areas.

The section is helpless and hapless.

And, to a considerable extent, it can blame itself.

For decades New England has ignored its tremendous waterpower resources.

It has discouraged private investment in dams and reservoirs.

It has been equally myopic and penurious with public money.

It has fought and blocked necessary electrical developments and sought to run its factories and light its homes with equipment that was obsolete in the era of the two-cylinder automobile.

It has known for years that the harnessing of its many rivers, streams and tidal basins for the production of electricity would have made its people the richest and most self-sufficient in the Western Hemisphere.

But, for some never-satisfactorily-explained reason, New England has been content to blunder, bungle and do nothing.

Now, faced with the grim penalty of needless dependency, the six harassed States may be less wasteful of their tremendous waterpower and, may belatedly resolve to use the energy that could save and sustain their people.

GARAGE FAVORED

THE MASSACHUSETTS House of Representatives, which has shown a consistent and commendable disposition to promote prosperity — particularly for the returning war veterans—has passed legislation for the urgently needed garage under Boston Common.

The bill which now goes to the Senate, where the essential project has already been approved, is a GOOD MEASURE.

It permits the garage to be built with a minimum of delay and red tape.

And it adequately protects the city and State.

Years hence, we venture to predict, this legislation for the garage will be generally regarded as the greatest accomplishment of the present Legislature.

The Senate, which is undoubtedly one of the best upper houses in Massachusetts history, can be relied upon to accept the Representatives' amendments and hasten the passage of the Garage Bill.

HOME SITES

THE LAWRENCE City Council has voted to sell at public auction 50 parcels of municipally owned land previously set aside as sites for new homes for war veterans.

Let us hope these sites will not be gobbled up by speculators for sale later on to the veterans at skyrocketed prices.

Free or nearly free land for the lads who fought and won the war should be provided by every city and town in the State and nation.

The land is available in sufficient quantities, particularly in the suburban and rural areas.

When a veteran receives a gift of land he can use the full amount of his GI Bill of Rights loan for new construction and, of course, can build a better home and contribute more to the community.

On the Side

Kiss me, 'ere the moment slips,
On my lips,
O My Love, and yet again
Kiss me, 'ere our youth's brief day
Fleet away,
Making all our passion vain.
— RONSARD.

ACCORDING TO some research on life among the married women, the majority of women after the first baby transfer most of their loving attention to the children and forget to give papa his proper portion of petting. How about this? Was it that way at your house? Did your wife cease running her fingers through your hair and stop bestowing unexpected kisses upon you after the first blessed event?

PASSING BY: Dorothy Shaver. Brilliant and smart looking department store executive. Possibly Manhattan's Career Woman No. 1. Miss Shaver was born on July 29 and is therefore a Leo. Women born under that sign have unusual courage with which to combat life. When they set their mind on getting something they usually get it. They are extremely romantic and the only time they are really unhappy is when out of love. They like praise but it must be sincere. They are adverse to flattery. Usually happily married because they are inclined to choose a husband by his character more than his looks or amount of wealth or income. Or so say the stargazers.

Dorothy Shaver

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—My husband says dieting is only for women who want to recapture their youth and be glamour girls. I say for a man over 40 to be too fat is injurious to his health and will shorten his life. My husband is 42 years old, 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighs 186 pounds. What should his weight be? A—Life insurance experts state that for a man of over 40 to be excessively fat is definitely a factor in shortening his life. According to these same experts, your husband should weigh about 152 pounds . . . Q—In what year was the song "He's a Devil in His Own Home Town" popular? A—That's going pretty far back. Don't know exactly, but it was before World War I. Around 1914, I think.

COOKERY: How is corned beef made? What is caviar? What is tapioca and where does it come from? What is a coddled egg? These are some of the questions a matrimonial expert suggests a young man should ask his prospective bride, in order to ascertain the extent of her knowledge in the cooking and serving of food. Of course, your wife can answer these queries as quick as a flash.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: An Arnold, Cal., subscriber says in his town the men outnumber the women 40 to 1. He asks that I relay this information to the members of the We Wanna Get Married Club of Pittsburgh . . . Add members of the Repeating Name Club: Essaff Essaff, San Francisco . . . Am informed Mr. and Mrs. James Tate of Norfolk, Va., who had 12 daughters and no sons, lived next door to a Mr. and Mrs. Newton, who had 11 sons and one daughter. My informant neglected to state whether any romances ending in marriage resulted from this unusual situation.

SLOW WALKERS: We can't blame people for walking slowly. They may have very good reasons for so doing. But why is it so many slow walkers walk four abreast? Why do they keep bobbing and weaving about the sidewalk, making it tough for people who are trying to get somewhere? Another type of walker who can prove irritating, and at times dangerous, is the fellow who suddenly turns without any warning. Then there is the dreamy type of pedestrian who doesn't watch where he is going and walks right into you and nearly knocks you flat or jams your cigar down your throat.

PLEASE NOTE: The Society for the Suppression of Family Interference originated in Nottingham, England, is gaining in membership with branches throughout Great Britain. A United States branch is reported organizing in New York. The chief aim of this society is to protect young couples against interfering mothers-in-law.

ASIDES: Mary Pickford says her favorite film actress is Joan Fontaine. Mary says Joan has "charm" to a higher degree than any other of the present-day film actresses . . . A sports scribe claims Joe "Iron Man" McGinnity had more endurance than any other pitcher in baseball history. Joe had plenty of endurance, but not quite so much as Ed Walsh. In the season of 1908, Walsh pitched 55 games for the Chicago White Sox and won 40 of them!

"I wish people'd be home when we make a delivery!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IT HAS GIVEN me some satisfaction to observe of late that my own liberalism is winning converts on the Left.

This change is shown in the anger against John L. Lewis for throttling production of coal, against other unions for strikes against reconversion and civilian production and against Jimmy Petrillo's cultural censorship of music on the air.

Westbrook Pegler

The conversion that I observe seems insincere, however. Our erstwhile bigots have got the liberal religion only because recent outrageous conduct in the union field is a political embarrassment tending to discredit their activities.

These powers were given these union bosses by the Roosevelt Administration, against predictions of recent developments, and no man can be denounced for taking full advantage of his legal rights. Lewis derives his powers from these rights.

MY CONTENTION has been that no individual or group should have such power and that a truly liberal government would modify the laws which created a force of dangerous economic and political monsters.

Some years ago, in a conversation with Mr. Lewis, I argued that the closed shop was an abrogation of the rights of the individual.

He replied that the closed shop was the workers' own protection against that element who, in industry, has been denounced by Hugh Johnson as the chiseling 10 per cent.

He assumed that 90 per cent of the workers would gladly support unions and held that the other 10 per cent should be compelled to do so or go jobless.

But by his very insistence on the closed shop, plus the check-off, he revealed his own conviction that without compulsion his members would get away from him.

THAT IS THE FEAR THAT PROMPTS EVERY DEMAND FOR THE CLOSED SHOP IN ANY OF ITS GUISES, AND THE CHECK-OFF.

These people are so illiberal that they flatly insist that they know, better than the so-called common man, what is best for him.

They are contemptuous of his personal right to make his own mistakes, if mistakes such decisions be, and of his individual dignity.

"Why, after all," Mr. Lewis said, "in some mines we have had the check-off of church dues for years."

ONE OF THE most impressive demonstrations of narrowness calling itself liberalism that I recall during this period seemed petty of itself but was grievous in its implications.

Mrs. Roosevelt refused to enter a New York theater because Petrillo's musicians were picketing the house.

She remarked, as I recall her words, that regardless of the merits of the dispute, she could not cross a picket line.

It happened that the union's case had no merits. It happened that this was one of our worst unions with a dictatorship written into the first page of its constitution.

But even if it had been an ideal union, no genuine liberal could have taken the position that the other party to the controversy had no right to be heard before judgment was passed against him. That is lynching.

We often hear individuals denounced as Red-baiters and that has been my fate and pleasure from time to time.

Yet, in the same camp, we find David Dubinsky, of the Garment Workers, and Dave Beck, of the Teamsters in Seattle, excluding Communists and deciding by standards of their own who is a Communist.

THUS, IN SUCH AREAS A PERSON SO ADJUDGED MAY NOT EARN A LIVING, ALTHOUGH HE MAY HOLD PUBLIC OFFICE AND NO PUBLIC LAW DENIES HIM THE RIGHT TO EARN HIS LIVING.

I WAS a member of a small liberal minority when I insisted that our most savage liberals were Fascists in supporting the practise of imposing assessments on workers to be used as campaign funds for the Roosevelt party.

The bigot liberals argued that unwilling contributors would be grateful when they got back much more than they contributed, in the form of benefits won by their unions through government patronage.

They did not know or would not admit that this was exactly the way that Mussolini's unions were forced to support the Fascist party and that the Italian workers, too, were rewarded with illusory raises in pay which the employers met painlessly through government subsidies from Rome.

Hollywood

By Dorothy Manners
Substituting for Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 8—Hang on, you wild-eyed Nelson Eddy fans—here's the first movie news about your boy in a long time. Republic, the Gem of the Valley, has signed Nelson to a long-termer with his first, "Russian River" already scripted and ready to go.

Story centers around the Russian river early in the 1800's when Russian political prisoners were being sent there for settlement.

Nelson Eddy

For this colorful plot, Rudolf Friml has written a complete original musical score with some magnificent numbers for Eddy. It's no longer news to call attention to the fact that Republic is in the big money league. "Russian River" is budgeted at $2,000,000.

SABU PLANED OUT of Hollywood so fast en route to England to make a picture that even his studio, Universal, knew nothing about it until he sent a wire from New York. Tucked in his turban, or wherever he files contracts, Sabu has a deal set to star in "The Black Narcissus" for Alexander Korda—the producer who brought him to fame in "Jungle Boy". He's always been grateful, and so when Korda cabled, Sabu flew. Incidentally, there is no longer an engagement between him and Helene Neilson, Veronica Lake's pretty cousin. They are still good friends—but no wedding bells.

TWENTIETH CENTURY-FOX wants to make the same deal with Sam Goldwyn about sharing Vera-Ellen's contract they have with him on Dana Andrews. In other words, 50-50. Their first bid was an out and out offer to buy her contract, but Sam turned that down flat. But he hasn't yet said "No" about a deal to share the services of the little dancer. Westwood gossip is that "Carnival in Costa Rica" will make her a top star.

BEN PIAZZA received the first 16mm test of a would-be actress just 10 hours after his broadcast with Harriet Parsons. It was sent from Treasure Island Naval Base by Lt. Alperson and is of a very pretty girl named Lorraine Parr. The reason it got here in such a hurry is that they had shot the "test" for fun several weeks ago—but after hearing Harriet's broadcast, they immediately airmailed it to RKO. Ben, you remember, promised to look at every amateur test sent in—and he's the popular casting director at the studio who will know a good bet when he sees one.

THERE'S AN undercurrent of ironic tragedy taking place on the sidelines of "Life With Father." Every day the mother of Derek Scott brings the little boy to the set to play one of Irene Dunne's sons in the movie. And every day her heart has been breaking over the telegrams she has been receiving about her other boy, Douglas, so seriously ill with a typhus infection in Tokyo that for days he was not expected to live. And the story is this—when Douglas Scott was a little boy he played Irene Dunne's son in "Cimarron."

DANNY KAYE was a sad boy when his car burned up—or down—just as the buses and street cars in Los Angeles were paralyzed by strike. This is probably the first time in his life Danny's "timing" was bad. But he was considerably cheered when Gov. John C. Vivian of Colorado notified him that the State of Colorado is conferring on nobody else but Danny Kaye—the General Rose Memorial Medal for 1946. The medal is presented once a year in recognition of humanitarian services by an outstanding individual. Last year it went to Eddie Cantor. Kaye collects because of his USO trip to Tokyo and his many tours of bases here and abroad entertaining service men.

HOLLYWOOD IN SHORTS: Margo is touted to replace Mary Martin in "The Lute Song" when Mary comes to the Coast to make that movie; Marie McDonald and Bruce Cabot a newsome; Greg McClure (the "Great John L.") has opened a physical culture studio in Hollywood, in addition to his screen career. The McClure heir, incidentally, is due May 18; Peggy Ryan and James Cross won't be married until next March, although they are officially engaged now, complete with ring 'n' everything. Her mother feted the youngsters with their first engagement dinner last night; Mary and Jack Benny saying goodbye to Hollywood for a spell, dining with Bob Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck at La Rue. The place began to jive a bit when Herbert Marshall and the new flame, Boots Cagney, were ushered to the terrace just a couple of steps ahead of the arrival of his ex, Lee, who joined Otto Preminger and Natalie Draper. It was difficult for the interested onlookers to decide which was the more attractive—Boots or Lee—they both looked so stunning.

THE TENANTS moving into the Joy Page-Bill Orr home are Joan Fontaine and Bill Dozier, the newlyweds; for the first time in his career, Andy Devine plays an out and out heavy in "The Michigan Kid" and I don't mean his poundage; hear Peggy Hopkins Joyce is now engaged on her third tome which she's tilted "Pink Toes"; Beverly Tyler and Guy Williams a Brown Derby item; Miss Parsons—you received a copy of Taylor Caldwell's book, "This Side of Innocence," personally autographed by the author to "Louella Parsons—The Gay Literate"; Jack Fina, whose recording of "Bumble Boogie" is hot, hot, hot—leaves Freddie Martin to organize his own band. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Boston After Dark

SPACE RAN OUT Tuesday before the story of Russell Birdwell's friendship with Carol of Romania could be told . . . You may recollect that we were talking about the coincidence which found two fast friends of former Balkan country bosses seated at the same table in the Ritz-Carlton bar . . . Ray Brock, the war correspondent, was one American with Balkan ties at the table and Russell Birdwell, the other . . . Ray is wearing a decoration awarded him by Mihailovic, and as we explained yesterday, he is chairman of the American committee now trying to prevail on President Truman and our State Dept. to save Mihailovic from his successor in Allied esteem, Tito, the Red.

THE FRIENDSHIP of Birdwell and Carol of Romania began as a business friend acquaintanceship and has developed into a firm friendship . . . Russell was hired by the King of Romania (who has never abdicated, by the way) to handle his public relations on this side of the Atlantic . . . Whether that was the smartest kind of a move—the hiring of a press-agent by royalty—is not an issue in this short story . . . The fact is that Carol, who landed in Mexico with a couple of millions and beautiful Magda Lupescu—the woman behind his throne and many of his troubles—laid it on the line in heavy measure to have Birdwell represent him.

HE WAS HIRING a famous American press agent — perhaps the most publicized one of the present crop—when he got Russell . . . Birdwell has such campaigns as the "Gone With the Wind" ballyhoo and that for the newly-released "The Outlaw" to his credit . . . For the Atlanta opening of "Gone With the Wind," Russell conveyed a five-carload train of celebrities . . . For "the Outlaw" he has waged an unremitting crusade for attention over the four years in which the original negative has rested in a tin can in a Hollywood vault while the picture's owner, millionaire Howard Hughes, has dabbled in airplanes and oil-wells.

BIRDWELL BURSTS OUT in print occasionally with full-page advertisements on behalf of this or that cause, and for these signed-by-Birdwell messages, bills are ordered sent to Birdwell himself, Rockefeller Center, N. Y. C. . . . The one-time reporter for the Daily Mirror has seen to it that Russell Birdwell has been better publicized than most of his clients . . . That he has used his own money to thump the tub for himself is definitely to his credit . . . His policy also shows confidence in his racket . . . Like the salesman who himself wears whatever he is selling Birdwell can point to his full-page ads (and the free publicity readers which frequently accompany them) as proof that he practices what he preaches.

SO TO KING CAROL of Romania and—inescapably—to a discussion of his red-haired Magda . . . "Carol can enter this country whenever he wishes," avers Press Agent Birdwell . . . "But he is not interested in sightseeing . . . Unless he can come here officially, and with power to do his countrymen some good, he is not interested . . . I can say that a move has been made toward having Carol come here soon—this summer . . . Madame Lupescu, of course, will be with him . . . She would have been his wife many years ago except that the monarchial system under which Romania was governed made it necessary for a king to go before his parliament to have a divorce sanctioned and a new marriage accepted . . . Carol would have taken the step at any time . . . But he did not wish to permit a possible affront to the lady he loved."

WHAT ABOUT THESE stories that Carol followed the Fascist line, and that he was anti-Semitic? . . . Nonsense, says Mr. Birdwell . . . "Carol had one meeting with Hitler," said he . . . "It was a command appearance when Romania was helpless because of its smallness, and when Nazi armies were rampaging through neighbor countries . . . But Carol refused to accede to Hitler's demands, the meeting broke up with Hitler in a fury, and Carol felt it necessary to leave his country . . . He named his son, Michael, as King for such time as he, Carol, would have to be absent . . . But at no time did he abdicate . . . As he was leaving the country, Nazi sympathizers attempted his assassination, and bullets bounced off the royal train at every mile of the journey . . . The anti-Semitism charge derives from a prime minister . . . one of those guys with a 'scu' as the tag of their name—who was anti-Semitic . . . But Carol fired the Prime Minister in exactly five days from the day that the man's anti-Semitism was declared . . . It took that long to get him out . . . Carol has been victim of a typical 'smear' campaign . . . Do not be surprised if he rides over to ultimate triumph."

Broadway

NEW YORK, May 8—There is a seldom-heard-of orchestra leader at one of our leading movie palaces who must smile gently to himself when he reads about the prevalent crop of swoon singers and their agitato admirers, because none of them (not even Frankie Sinatra) receives the adulation that was his many eons ago.

Frank Sinatra

I am referring to Paul Ash, the maestro in the pit at the Roxy Theater. He once had a $1,000,000 cinema temple built in his honor in Chicago because Balaban & Katz owned no theater big enough to accommodate the mobs of flappers who went to see him, took sandwiches, and stayed for every performance.

Randolph Street, Chicago's counterpart of Broadway, was christened Paul Ash lane during his era, a national drug store chain named a sundae after him, his fan club gave him a platinum baton studded with diamonds, and when he deserted his following for a two-week vacation his return was marked by a parade noisy with brass bands and double-decker buses filled with screamers.

He was just a piano player from Milwaukee who somehow got a band and led it without knowing a great deal about music; he didn't tell jokes, he didn't sing, and his hair was dyed red.

But he must have had an all-time magnetic personality, for men who didn't know him not at him from theater balco ies and women divorced their hus bands on the grounds that they were not like Paul Ash.

People who know him well tell me he endured the wonderful nonsense chiefly because it helped build his annuities, and that now his feeling is one of relief—mingled, perhaps, with amazement at the shortness of public memory.

WASHINGTON, May 8 — I was putting a few finishing touches on my new book on postwar Germany, "What To Do About Morgenthau," when Joseph R. Farrington, the delegate from Hawaii, called.

"I wish I could find time to go down to OPA and deliver a geography lesson," he said.

I asked Mr. Farrington what OPA had done now and he said it was suffering from a severe case of misapprehension.

"It seems to have some weird delusions about Hawaii," he added. "It has put out a special announcement on price control exemptions for the islands—and what do you suppose are among the items exempted"

"Knowing OPA, probably snowshoes," I said.

"You think you're kidding," replied Mr. Farrington, "but it has done just exactly that. It has lifted ceilings in Hawaii on ice skates, skis and ski equipment, snowshoes and tobogans!"

AFTER ALLOWING a moment or two for Mr. Farrington to cool off, I suggested that maybe a new ski run had been discovered up on one of the mountains.

"You can forget that," said Hawaii's representative. "In the winter there is sometimes snow atop Mauna Kea, which is our highest peak. In fact, it is the highest peak on any island in the world—13,000 feet—but no one in his right mind would attempt to ski up there."

"Maybe they had a sudden cold spell you don't know about and have been snowshoeing around Waikiki," I said.

"Sure," said Mr. Farrington, "and the Pacific ocean has frozen over and they are having skating races from one island to another! What do you hear about OPA lifting grass skirts in Alaska!"

REP. F. EDWARD HEBERT of Louisiana went glass-eyed the other day on receiving a letter from a lady constituent. The matron demanded that he do something about OPA, which seems to have been causing her considerable distress.

George Goddard, the food expert, was meandering through the Department of Agriculture the other day and entered an office where two very harassed ladies were furrowed in thought. Mr. Goddard asked what was troubling them.

"We are trying to work out an illustration which will dramatize the amount of wheat to be sent to Europe," said the more harried-looking of the two. "It has been quite a task, but we think we have something."

Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

"Oh, they have their little spats . . .!"

"Sounds entrancing," said Mr. Goddard. "What is it?"

"Well, we wish to show, for purposes of dramatization, how many loaves of bread can be made from a million bushels of wheat. So we are going to say that a million bushels, made into loaves 10 inches long, would form a bridge from this country to Europe 26 loaves wide!"

MR. GODDARD, who is a skeptic, went back to his office and got out a lot of maps and slide rules. He tried checking the figures. At last reports he was still working on that bridge to Europe, but hadn't got much past the 12-mile limit. I may hear from him before they carry him away in a strait jacket.

MORE WONDERFUL dialogue in the august Senate of the United States, the proponents being Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana:

Mr. Fulbright: "Mr. President, I thought the Senator from Louisiana asked me a question. However, if he wishes to make another speech, he will have an opportunity to do so. He has already spoken four or five days."

Mr. Ellender: "No! No!"

Mr. Fulbright: "I beg the Senator's pardon."

Mr. Ellender: "I may have spoken for four or five hours."

Mr. Fulbright: "I meant hours. I did not mean days. That was a slip of the tongue."

Mr. Ellender: "I doubt if I spoke five hours."

Mr. Fulbright: "I apologize for saying days. I meant to say hours."

Mr. Ellender: "Very well."

Senator Fulbright will now sing: "The Hours I Spent With Thee . . ."

PAULETTE GODDARD
Paramount's "Kitty"

'Kitty' to Open At Met. Thurs.

Starring Paulette Goddard and Academy Award-winner Ray Milland, "Kitty," Paramount's screen adaptation of the popular best-seller by Rosamond Marshall, tops the new program opening Thursday at the Metropolitan Theater.

"Dark Alibi," latest of the Charlie Chan series, featuring Sidney Toler once again as the wily sleuth, will be the companion attraction.

A Mitchell Leisen production, "Kitty" is said to be a lavish and eye-filling spectacle. It is the story of a hot-headed cockney waif who rises from rags to riches when Sir Thomas Gainsborough engages her to model for him. In the course of her career, she glides gracefully up the social ladder via three marriages, one more brilliant than the other.

Besides the Goddard-Milland team, the big cast includes Patric Knowles, Reginald Owen, Cecil Kellaway, Constance Collier and Sara Allgood. Credit for the script goes to Karl Tunberg and Darrell Ware.

'Bloomer Girl 'Wins High Praise

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Bloomer Girl," that handsome looker of a musical which was a thriving Broadway affair for two years, is now tenanting the Shubert. The John C. Wilson production opened last night to a bigger advance sale than ushered in the potential Broadway smash-hit, "Annie, Get Your Gun," at this house on memorable April 2. The paying last nighters were as well turned out as "Bloomer Girl" herself. There the comparison ends, for the former obviously had a much better time than some of the latter's cast, who were malingering with first night jitters.

This nervousness and self-doubt are without basis since "Bloomer Girl" is right up there, next to our musical comedy love, "Annie," as the most uniformly attractive musical show since "Oklahoma!"

It is no "Oklahoma!" so let's have that over with. It hasn't the score nor the book but it does have some of the most engaging personalities and Agnes de Mille dances of recent seasons

Nanette Fabray, who followed Celeste Holm, 1945's best-femme-in-a-musical, in the title role, is a best bet herself, a dream-girl with a sense of humor, rhythm and timing that make her big league stuff.

Up there in second place is cute, gill-sized Peggy Campbell, who can sing and dance and look prettily impish with enormous success. She was the audience's darling from scratch, cinching this love affair with her droll way with the song-and-dance winner, "T'morra, T'morra"

Dick Smart's tall, slender and tender Southerner, Jef Calhoun, makes nice music with Miss Fabray's "bloomer girl," and Richard Huey's singing of "I've Got A Song" is merely show-stopping.

Miss De Mille's choreography, notably her impressive Civil War and amusing "It Was Good Enough for Grandma" ballets, is unhackneyed and varied and easily the most noteworthy feature of this genuinely arresting and attractive musical period-piece.

Eye-taking to an unusual degree are Lemuel Ayres' settings and Miles White's costumes. Unlike so many of those ill-fated clothes-horses of musical shows previewed here, the gorgeousness of the costumes or the lookability of the sets never dominate the theaterwise Wilson's production.

Throughout this good but never great musical is earmarked with good craftsmanship and the know-how of experts. From the first curtain you can relax and enjoy "Bloomer Girl," for here is competent, tasteful, stagewise entertainment that knows its way across, around and behind the footlights.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—My brother has been in the service since September of 1944 and has been overseas since January, 1945. Will he be eligible for discharge soon? R. B., Hudson, N. H.

A—The present point system for military personnel in the Army is as follows:

(1) All Enlisted Men (except volunteers) with 40 points as of Sept. 2, 1945, or with 24 months' service as of June 30, 1946, will be eligible for discharge by June 30, 1946.

(2) All Officers (except Regular Army, volunteers, and medical department officers) who will have 2 years' service by Aug. 31, 1946, are immediately eligible for separation. However, they will be retained in service to complete an assignment but in no case longer than Aug. 31, 1946.

Q—Since my discharge from the Army in October, 1944, I have been employed as a clerk in a clothing store. Now I have the opportunity to start training for the position of store manager with this firm. Will I be able to get subsistence under the GI Bill during this training in addition to my salary as a clerk? J. D., Montpelier, Vt.

A—It will be necessary for your firm to apply to the Veterans' Administration requesting to be certified to give training under the GI Bill. It appears that you would be eligible to receive subsistence payments for this on-the-job training providing that the total of the two payments does not exceed the salary paid a qualified employe in the occupation for which the veteran is being trained.

Q—My husband is a Private First Class. Can I get maternity benefits? R. R., Portland, Me.

A—As your husband is in an eligible pay grade you are entitled to maternity care under the Emergency Maternity and Infant Care Program. Write or apply to Division of Maternal and Child Health, State Bureau of Health, Augusta, Me.

Q—My son has been in the service since April 20, 1945. He enlisted in the Marine Corps Reserve. When will he be eligible for discharge? Mrs. A. T., Woonsocket, R. I.

A—Questions pertaining to the Marine Corps should be directed to Rehabilitation Director, First Reserve District, Room 728, Post Office Building, Boston.

Q—My son has been in the service since January, 1945, and overseas since May, 1945. He is with the Seabees. When will he be eligible to come home? V. M.

A—All Navy personnel (except Regular Navy) will be eligible for separation between July 11, 1946 and Aug. 20, 1946, regardless of points.

Q—Is a veteran of Warld War II exempt from paying future poll taxes? V. W., Somerville.

A—It is all news to me. You will still receive the yearly poll tax bill.

Q—My legal residence has always been Massachusetts, but due to my job it was necessary for me to live in Maryland where I registered and was drafted. Am I eligible for Mass. or Maryland bonus? J. L. M., Beverly.

A—Under a new amendment to the State Bonus Law you may apply for the Massachusetts State bonus. Write Bonus Div., 15 Ashburton Pl., Boston.

Q—I was married Nov. 27, 1945 Dec. 1945. I applied for wife's allotment and deduction was taken out for one month. However, she has failed to receive any benefit for that one month. Where would I write? C. B., Danvers.

A—Write to Bureau of Supply and Accounts (Allotment Div.), Cleveland, Ohio.

Q—Is there any World War II veterans group of the Merchant Marine? If so, would you please give address? L. E., Winchester.

A—There is an organization known as World War Veterans of the American Merchant Marine, 251 Washington st., Newton, Mass.

Mild and Pleasant. Works on scientific principle!

• Why is Feen-a-mint in chewing gum form? Science says: Chewing your food helps it do the most good. Similarly, chewing Feen-a-mint prepares its fine medicine to give the greatest benefit—flows it gently and gradually into digestive system. Mild! Delicious! Candy-Coated! Children take it gladly when needed. When constipation makes you miserable, chew Feen-a-mint exactly as directed and feel fine again. Unusual Cream Snares Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

FACIAL VITALITY is as good today as it ever was . . . and the woman with a flawless, classic complexion is the woman who invokes admiration and elicits second glances. Want to hide those enlarged pores? Rouse the complexion circulation with an unusual plastic cream that revives the school-girl complexion and assures sculptured beauty a la Paramount Star Barbara Stanwick's engaging countenance!

SAD BUT TRUE, it's an inevitable conclusion . . . that if a woman doesn't think about herself . . . heaven help the future of her charm rating. Words are futile things at best . . . so talking about it begets nothing. It's a little action that counts.

At home . . . away from the office for a week . . . and a gal gets a real chance to put this woman stuff to the acid test . . . to take inventory and chalk up results . . . a nice habit in any language. For with time on your hands and love in your heart . . . the mirror grabs the spotlight and turns its brazen frankness on the personality to be or not to be. And what woman doesn't want beauty?

There's a line or two, it reveals, which a busy schedule passed off with knowing indifference but which melts into nothingness with loving and cosmetic care . . . tired eyes that come out of hiding like a tulip turning its petals out to be sun-kissed . . . beauty indulgence that's as good for the soul as for the face.

Beauty may be only skin deep (cliche) . . . but let that skin surface be anything short of marvelous and what does it get a woman, if not a heartache or two? For can a gal go around beseeching people to come and have a look-see into her beauty of soul? We see what we see and if we like what we see then we make a move to like what's behind that lovely face . . . to explore the mind and appreciate the temperament. That's life.

To look fine and to know it . . . is pride at its best. And the beauty which you and I . . . salt-of-the-earth American women . . . must snare is and must be of the catered-to-variety.

All of which is prelude to an unusual cream that lives up to its promise of remaking, revamping, firming the complexion into an expanse of alabaster smoothness and velvety softness . . . as translucent as lucite and as clear as crystal. Here is a cream that's plastic in the hands which sends its properties over the skin to mould facial contours into classic purity. Use it two or three times a week over a cleansed skin . . . and watch your complexion light up with rediscovered radiance and blemish-free clarity. As for enlarged pores . . . they haven't a chance of survival under the eradicating potency of this product.

For the name of this facial revamping and contour-firming cream, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, Monday through Saturday, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Maple Syrup Will Ferment If Not Properly Stored

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

IF YOU COME FROM ANY STATE where there are the right type of maple trees, you may have had the thrill of collecting the sap, watching it boil up in great brown bubbles in the vats, and finally eating the fresh hot syrup on a heap of golden pancakes. But even if this unique experience has not been yours, you can still make the most of this year's maple crop, which is always a special treat.

We have had questions from several readers about the keeping qualities of maple syrup, unless it is properly cared for, maple syrup will ferment. There are two methods of storing that we know of which are quite successful. The first one is to bring the syrup to a boil, pour into hot preserve jars, and seal. The other method is to keep it in the refrigerator. A friend of ours stores a gallon container for several months this way. But since the average refrigerator is generally filled to capacity, it would seem that the first method would be preferable if there is any sizable amount of maple syrup to be stored.

A TAILOR-MADE summer fabric is designed by Natalie Renke into a tailor-made frock with new bloused sleeves and a full gathered skirt. The fabric is hard-to-wrinkle, easy-to-pack koda jersey knitted with Eastman acetate rayon. Perfect for town or country, it's also a durable and attractive traveler for transcontinental vacationing.

USED IN COOKING

Usually when you think of maple syrup you think of pancakes and waffles. But maple syrup may be a cookery ingredient, and in that capacity gives a brand-new flavor to the recipes in which it is used.

In using maple syrup as a substitute for sugar, it is always better to use a recipe designed especially for it. But the general rule is "for 1 cup of granulated sugar, use 1½ cups maple syrup." Additional liquid is also added when this substitution is made, and it is therefore necessary to decrease the amount of liquid originally called for. With maple syrup, reduce the liquid ¼ cup for each cup of syrup used.

MAPLE MUFFINS

2 tbsp. shortening (use your saved fat)
1-3 cup maple syrup — 1 egg
1-3 cup milk — 1 cup bran
1 cup sifted enriched flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt — ½ tsp. soda

Blend shortening and syrup; add egg and beat well. Add milk and bran; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift dry ingredients together; add to first mixture, stirring only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full and bake in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 25 minutes. Makes 8 muffins (2¼ inches in diameter).

MAPLE CUSTARD

1½ cups maple syrup
4 eggs, slightly beaten
2½ cups milk, scalded

Combine syrup and eggs. Add milk gradually, stirring vigorously. Pour into custard cups, place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 35 to 40 minutes, or until knife inserted comes out clean. If baked in 8-inch baking dish, custard should bake 45 to 50 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

SERVED WITH FRUIT

The next time you serve grapefruit do it this way: After you've cut the fruit in halves, scored the sections and taken out the core, pour on each half a generous amount of maple syrup and let it soak in well before serving. You'll find the grapefruit delightfully sweetened and improved by the syrup.

On strawberries, maple syrup may take the place of sugar—and its maple flavor adds much to the flavor of these berries when they're ripe and red and juicy.

MAPLE PUFF

1 cup maple syrup
3 egg yolks
1 tbsp. granulated gelatin
½ cup cold water
1 cup whipped cream

Heat maple syrup to boiling point and pour slowly over the beaten egg yolks. Place over the fire and stir until the mixture is set (about 2 minutes). Add the gelatin which has been dissolved in the cold water and put aside to set. When partially set stir in the whipped cream and pour into a mold. Serve plain or with cream. Maple Charlotte may be made as Maple Puff using 2 stiffly beaten egg whites instead of whipped cream.

Wedding on Limited Budget

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Because of a limited budget, I am planning my church wedding as simply as possible. I will have a maid of honor and two bridesmaids.

1—If we do not wish formal afternoon wear for the men in the wedding party, and they do not all own dark blue afternoon suits, is it permissible for them to wear tuxedos?

2—We would like to avoid, or at least cut down on, the expense of having engraved wedding invitations and announcements. Would it be proper to invite the guests personally and by informal notes? Or could we have engraved invitations for only those who are going to be invited to both ceremony and reception? (We have many relatives and are planning a fairly large family reception.)

1—Tuxedos are appropriate for evening wear, and they shouldn't be worn before six o'clock in the evening at the earliest. Rather than have the men wear tuxedos at an afternoon wedding, it is better for them to wear whatever shade of business suit they have . . . or perhaps those who haven't dark blue suit can borrow these from friends of similar size.

2—For such an informal wedding as you are planning, your guests may properly be invited verbally or by notes. Or, if you especially wish some engraved invitations, you may have these for the ceremony—invitations; and invite the reception guests verbally.

3—Announcements of the marriage are sent only to those who were not invited to either the ceremony or reception.

Gingham Top Coat

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A FINE idea for warm weather is a style news item—the gingham top coat. This is a very high style entry in summer wraps and is intended to wear over sleek town dresses on the street.

The gingham top coat comes in several different editions. One is the short swagger coat, and another is the tunic. The third, and to my mind the most interesting, is the long top coat, very casual and good for a lot of different doings. A model like this is sketched. It is made of black and white checked gingham and it fastens on white buttons down the front. A white belt holds the waistline. The sleeves have deep armholes and there is fullness done with pleats at the front of the skirt.

NOTES FROM A SOCIETY EDITOR'S CUFF: Mrs. Burns Magruder (Beatrice Lowell) and her young son are planning to come from Washington for a summer holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lowell of Boston, at their place in Barnstable.

A peppy sixsome sharing a table in the Myles Standish Cocktail Lounge included post debs Ginny Palfrey, Fifi Long and Anne Wigglesworth with their beaux Peter Duble, Wendell Nichols and Henry D. Burnham.

Radiantly happy as she discussed future wedding plans with her fiance, Talbot Dewey, between rhumbas and sambas at the Copley Plaza Oval Room the other evening, post deb Priscilla Blackett of Chestnut Hill accented her brunette hair with a scarlet dress and white orchids. Alice Doolittle, squired by Henry Brooks, wore black ballet slippers with her off-shoulder black taffeta dinner dress and a gardenia tucked in her hair bob. Barbara Mitchell was with Bill Rogers.

MRS. THOMAS BITTENBENDER'S glamorous black Milan with pink taffeta bows nestled in the open crown, was the hat of the day at the Copley Plaza Fashion luncheon yesterday. The former Leslie Blake is continuing her career as a model along with housekeeping for Tom but took a holiday to watch some of her friends parade in a sumptuous array of furs. Mrs. Philip K. Brown of Waban had a ringside table to watch her deb daughter, Gloria, model beautiful beavers and Persians and an attractive twosome from Brockton was Mrs. John Filoon and Mrs. Dorothy Fuller. Mrs. Filoon wore fresh gardenias on the lapel of her green suit and artificial ones on her pillbox hat. Mrs. Fuller's pearl gray suit was topped by a modish hat trimmed with white ostrich.

Mrs. Calvin DeWitt, Jr., of Waban, lunched with friends and wore another modish hat, a toast straw with scarlet poppies on the crown. Next week's luncheon will feature summer cottons.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM HOGAN, JR., of Cambridge are rejoicing over the birth of their third child and second daughter at Wyman House, May 3. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Hogan and Mrs. Austin McHugh.

MRS. JOHN W. BARTOL'S home on Chestnut st., was the scene of a coffee party yesterday for the spring meeting of the Nursery Training School Corp. Plans were made for a two-day child development institute next fall as part of the school's 25th anniversary program. The Institute will be of practical help to mothers and teachers of small children.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Edmund S. Homer, Mrs. Robert H. Goodale, Dr. Abigail Eliot; four new board members, Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Mrs. Homer, Mrs. Erwin H. Schell and Mrs. John E. Phemister; and many others of the corporation.

Need Any Butter? Go to Philly

PHILADELPHIA, May 8 (AP)—More than six tons of butter, enough to supply 12,600 persons with one pound, goes on sale tomorrow at the Reading terminal here.

And housewives will be able to buy it at the ceiling price of 55 cents.

The sellers will be farmers, members of the New Jersey Federated Egg Producers' Co-operative Ass'n of Toms River, affiliated with the National Farmers' Union.

"We're out to break the black market in butter," said Irwin Kramer, co-operative sales manager.

The Co'operative obtained the butter from farmers in the Great Lakes dairy belt. And they'll get a carload—64,00 pounds—each week.

Wins Dream Man In Mail Romance

LONDON, May 8 (INS)—A New York girl, Harriet Cohen, wooed by airmail from Britain, said she was thrilled beyond expectation today when she met her prospective husband for the first time.

Harriet journeyed to England to be with Dan Febland, former Royal Air Force cook, who won her by his letters.

"Dan is far above my expectations," she said. "He is a man from another world—a dream. I think I am a lucky girl."

Study of Joe Cronin, or, In Praise of Success

By AUSTEN LAKE

IT'S TIME TO SHRIVE THE SOUL! For inasmuch as I am one who used to blister Joe Cronin for his natural reluctance to hurt people's feelings when the dictates of Red Sox policy seemed to require that he do so; and since I skewered amiable Joe for his willingness to hog all the worry for 25 other fellows instead of worrying less and obliging them to worry more, I am now caught in the backfire of my own logic.

Austen Lake

For if Joe was censorable for the failures of his former teams when the athletes came fully guaranteed as the stuff of which pennants are made, it follows that he should also receive full credit for hoisting a team, the majority of which were yesteryear's disappointments to new altitudes. So it's only fair that I should cuss myself back now since these same athletes, most of whom could not hit rival pitching, and the same pitchers, most of whom could not prevent rival players from hitting them, are miraculously roosting on the League's ridgepole.

Editorial Flip-Flop

IF THIS IS AN EDITORIAL FLIPFLOP it is only following the time stained traditions of the baseball business where the managers or the owners blow sweet or sour toward their athletes as the latter perform their daily chores, good or bad. Even the best brains of the ball business are not immune from this inconsistency. Like the time the late John McGraw, regarded as one of the finest minds of the game, made a telephone trade of Freddy Lindstrom to the Praves when Freddy was hitting horsecollars and gouging up divots in the infield grass with his chin. At the moment McGraw regarded Lindstrom as an unillustrious bum.

But the day before Freddy was due to be crated and freighted to Boston, he walloped two doubles and a homerun and immediately was a bum no longer but a very valuable Giant asset. So McGraw pretended to have asphasas, or lapsus memoria, and the trade never came off. Which proves that better baseball brains than mine do mental flipflops. Nor will this be the last of my flipflops.

Yes, it is easy to toss orchids at Cronin, who is doing a nifty job of third base coaching, bull pen master minding, and keeping some 30 men satisfied and fraternal. I want to get this nosegay in quick, because it is always possible that the Sox might slide off the roof and Joe's master minding go curdled. Because in the inherent hazards of the ball business nothing succeeds like success or fails like failure.

So, if you don't like Cronin's type you don't like apple pie like grandma baked it, or the shimmer of the summer sun on the open sea, or the sniff autumn woodsmoke, or snubnosed school kids. There's a little of all these elements in Joe—simplicity, candor, wistfulness and generosity.

Recently I asked Connie Mack, octogenarian of the Athletics, how great a part a manager plays in the success of ball clubs. And Connie gravely answered, "A manager can help a club if his judgment and understanding of human nature is sound, or deter it if he lacks those qualities. But no manager ever won a pennant by sheer masterminding in a dugout. He might be the smartest manager in the head that ever lived and still see his strategy go sour because of dumb execution and incompetence."

Connie stroked his withered jaws and added, "I might ask you if you think Joe McCarthy of the Yankees would have had the same success if he had managed the St. Louis Browns. No sir, 90 per cent of any pennant battle is in the hands of the players. Look at the St. Louis Cardinals' consistent success under half a dozen managers."

Like Factory Workers

YOUR AVERAGE BALLPLAYER is like a factory worker who shuts down his lathe or forge after 5 o'clock and doesn't have to think about the machinery until he punches the time clock next morning. But the chances are while he's snoozing soundly, the manager of the concern is pacing the floor or tossing about in bed trying to figure a way to reduce his overhead or step up production so he can pull the company out of the red ink.

Lately Joe McCarthy sat in his Hotel Kenmore suite, his Santa Claus features puckered in a sober frown. "No baseball manager ever thinks the other team won a ball game," he said. "As he looks at it his team lost it. Somebody kicked a grounder in the clutch, or his ace pitcher lacked his usual stuff, or his hitters were swinging at bad balls, or a base runner missed a sign that would have been the tying run. So every defeat is due, not to the strength of the other side, but to the weakness of his own. And he's got to figure what to do about it."

So worry is a universal habit of all managers, including Cronin, whose worries today are actually less than they were in the years when he was acting as a soothing spouse toward a hysterical harem of helpmeets, including such characters as Wes Ferrell, Willie Werber, Buck Newsom and Roy Johnson, all and any of whom were enough to whiten the locks of any manager. The strange part of this early season is that the Red Sox, for all their professional fury and vital fire, are a placid, docile set of personalities who conform to good behavior and are not given to rowdy ructions of the sort once supposed to be the hallmark of all good ball clubs. So Cronin's wake is not cluttered with troubles while trying to think for 25 other guys because they refuse to think for themselves.

Cronin has suffered at his 12-year task—though not out loud, but in the secret caverns of soul. The perennial boyish look which he brought to Boston in 1934 has changed to a florid grimness from long and futile peering into foggy futures. He has been a patient whipping boy for failures that we, including me, have charged against him but actually were not all his. He has seen his best laid plans tumble in crockery smashes. And still he has remained as nature made him, one of the most forebearing, patient guys in baseball.

If this is an editorial flipflop, it is belated credit where credit is overdue. And I trust that future events will not be such that I, as is the nature of my craft, will have to flipflop back again.

Win 'Em the Easy Way Fans' Plea to Red Sox

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Who is the script writer—the guy who pens "Suspense"? Can't they do it the easy way once in a while? Do they have to drag it out 14 innings as they did to win their 12th straight? (Sox 10, Browns 6.) "We'll take care of that," said Jimmie Dykes, ebullient manager of the White Sox who are the guests of the Red Sox today. "Let it never be said that 'Dykes could be plugged' while we're playing the Sox. We'll do the plugging ourselves."

'Break Up Sox!' A. L. Cries as Hose Go After 13th

"Break up the Red Sox!" That was the cry going around the league today after the Sox widened their lead over the Yankees to 3½ games and sought their 13th straight. "You can have that radio," phoned an im-mense. "The game is tied and Williams is coming to bat, and they start talking about beer."

What's the matter with Hughson? That is the No. 1 question of the day. But the No. 1 question two weeks ago was: "What's the matter with Ferris?" It isn't worth while to worry over the matter. Neither has a sore arm. Both have proved they can pitch. The Sox are playing they don't need much help from either. But have you noticed the Sox don't let Hughson or Ferris down? No, both are grand competitors; they've won big games for the Sox before. They'll win them again. Williams, Pesky, Di Madge, Wagner and Co. fight for that type of athlete. Hughson was only kidding when he said: "Dreisewerd will win 20 if I keep going this way."

Ted can hit. Nobody can deny that. After missing the '43, '44 and '45 seasons here he is leading the league and exceeding the pace he set in '41 when he hit .406. Doerr is having his troubles. He might do better if he swapped batting positions with Dom or Wagner.

Red Sox Streak

	D	Opp. Team	Score	Win. P.
April	25	Yanks	12-5	Dobson
	26	A's	7-0	Ferriss

	6	Brow's	6-2	Bagby
	6	Brow's	5-4	Dobson
	7	Brow's	10-6	*Driesward

*Won in relief role.

That came under the heading of a major assignment. The Sox can't lose, it seems. Twice in their 12-game win streak has Tex Hughson been shelled from the box. Twice has Clem Dreisewerd relieved him. Twice has Dreisewerd won. That's two more than he won for the Sox last year before he entered the Navy. Twice the Sox have been Indian givers; handing the game away and taking it back.

Take that Tuesday game for example. No, you can't take it. The Sox already have it in their locker. But let's talk about it anyway.

Sox were trailing 4-0 when Hughson was chased to the showers with 9 hits in 2 2-3 innings. Williams promptly hit his longest local homer of the year with Pesky aboard to make the count 4-2. The Browns picked up two more runs off Mel Deutsch in the fourth to go ahead 6-2, and everybody said "This is it."

It wasn't. The Sox chalked up two more in the sixth and tied it six-all in the seventh after DiMaggio threw a body block at Christman that broke up a double play. That was the turning point of the game. Then Culberson took up the cudgel.

He had batted for the non-hitting Pellagrini in the third. He almost tossed the game away in the 11th when he threw McQuillen's grounder into the dugout. He booted chances to win the game in the 7th and 12th, but that 14th. Ah! Was that different!

York walked, and when the Browns' infield came in expecting a bunt, DiMaggio lined a single over Berardino's head, York taking third on Grace's bobble. Wagner was passed intentionally, and now the younger of the Sox two Indians came to bat with the bases filled. He had been hitless in five trips to the plate. He was rusty. It had been his first game since he replaced Metkovich in right field against southpaw Newhouser one week ago.

It was his first shot at the third base job in the regular season. Andres started there, didn't hit; Pellagrini replaced Andres, didn't hit. The job was Culby's if he came through.

He did. He hit Shirley's first pitch over the garden wall, and the palpitating 11,399 who paid to see the game went home breathless.

It wasn't an accident. Culby had done it before. He hit a home run off Don Black in Philly a year ago (in the gloaming, too) to give the Sox a 1-0 win. He had hit for the "cycle" in Cleveland his first year up in '43.

That is worth recounting. Dee Miles was fumbling around in centerfield. He was making the pitching look worse than its sorry bad. In Chicago this day, Miles hit an ordinary fly ball drop for a three-run homer. It beat the Sox.

Young Culby took over in the second game. It was a different Sox club from then on. For a "duration" ball player he's done very well.

That must be balm to Tom Daly's wounds, for the ailing Sox scout, sent to the minors to pick up Jo-Jo Moore, who was cast off by the Giants, came back with Culby who was hitting .173 for Louisville at the time.

There was only one thing wrong with the lad. He had a "football knee." He was a great all-around athlete at Darlington Prep outside his native Rome, Ga. He vaulted 12-8 as a schoolboy. He ran on Georgia's championship relay teams. He played such great football for Georgia Tech as a freshman he was anathematized for leaving college and hopping into pro baseball.

He was an outfielder by trade. He did play some 20 games at third base for Scranton (Sox farm) five years back. He never played the bag again until this spring. He was at the post all the way north, and Cronin didn't give up on him until opening day when he switched to Andres.

The kid doesn't know all the plays at third. He couldn't. But he's got plenty of guts, plenty of batting ability, and he can run with Metkovich, DiMadge and Pesky. Good luck to him and to his knee, and may Eddie Pellagrini feel more at home the next chance he gets to play ball. He's got it, even though he didn't show it.

Arcaro Will Ride Hampden

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Kentucky Derby winner, Assault, led a parade of six three-year-olds into Pimlico from Louisville for the Preakness Stakes but the big racing news was that Eddie Arcaro, America's top jockey, had switched from Lord Boswell and would ride William DuPont, Jr.'s Hampden in Saturday's $100,000 race.

Arcaro, who won the Preakness in 1941 aboard Whirlaway, was reached at his home in Long Island and confirmed the fact that for the Preakness he would handle the colt who finished third in the Derby, instead of Mrs. Elizabeth Graham's sleek runner, whom he brought in fourth last Saturday.

"After the Derby, I told Jimmy Smith, who trains Mrs. Graham's horses, when he asked me, that I would like to ride Lord Boswell back in the Preakness," Arcaro explained. "But when I returned to New York I learned my agent had already signed me to ride Hampden.

"Hampden is an improved colt and I realized it when I rode him to second place in the Woods Memorial and won the Chesapeake Stakes a week ago last Saturday, with him."

The unexpected switch probably will put Teddy Atkinson, the Canadian jockey, on Lord Boswell and leave open the mount on Lord Boswell's stablemate, Knockdown, with the possibility that the assignment will go either to Bobby Permane or Johnny Gilbert for this richest race in American turf history.

Suspend Trainer On Dope Charge

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Churchill Downs stewards announced the suspension of C. Sitgraves, trainer of Three Per Cent, which won the first race at the Downs last Wednesday.

The announcement said a report from the state chemist revealed the presence of a drug in a saliva specimen taken from the horse. The stewards also said the purse which Three Per Cent won had been awarded to Al Wellman's Judy Dunn, which finished second.

Brighton Catholic Plays Armstrongs

Brighton Catholic Institute will be out to score its second straight Boston City League victory tonight against the Armstrongs at McKenney Playground, Brighton.

In the other league contest for tonight, the Boston Blue Sox entertains the Mission Hill American Legion Post at Fenn Stadium. Both games are scheduled for 6 o'clock.

Takes Orders Now

NEW YORK, May 8 (INS)— The old song, "I've Got My Captain Working for Me Now," was revived in the case of heavyweight champion Joe Louis and his former commanding officer, Capt. Lou, Krem, 41. Krem has gone to work for Joe as his public relations adviser and contact man.

Showdown on Golf Rules Due

By BILL GRIMES

Before the qualifications for the U. S. Open championship are held, the U. S. G. A. and the P. G. A. will have a show-down with the "name" pros who improvised new rules for the winter tournaments. For almost a year, the big pro tournaments have allowed contestants to use 16 clubs, play preferred lies, repair ball marks on greens, cut the penalty for "out of bounds" to loss of distance only, and score the face of their clubs in direct violation of the U. S. G. A. rules.

Possibly the rules of golf can be improved. But what authority has a small group of pros to defy the U. S. G. A and the P. G. A.? In fact, the players on the winter tour hurt the game, not to mention themselves by forming the Tournament Players' Ass'n and threatening to quit the P. G. A.

If the T. P. A. break with the P. G. A., the "name" players will be the losers. Strange to relate, the big pros do not seem to realize that the changes they've made in the rules are far more beneficial to the lesser lights than to themselves. Byron Nelson should have seen the light when that unknown, after openly improving his lie, belted a brassie shot to the 72 green of the St. Petersburg Open and tied him for third money.

The New England section of the P. G. A. has gone on record as opposed to any change in the playing rules without the sanction of the U. S. G. A. It will fight to the finish to prevent any clique discarding the current rules. It will demand that the game be played according to the current rules. And, it will instruct the Massachusetts Golf Ass'n, under whose auspices the Bay State open will be played at the Longmeadow Country Club, to disqualify any and all players who refuse to conform with the rules.

The U. S. G. A. will rule with an iron hand at the U. S. open. The governing body of golf in this country has been shocked at the way the tournament professionals have infringed on the rules for the past year. It knows the ringleaders and also the party who is behind the insurrection.

NOTES . . . Joe Fahey, an ex-GI from Jamaica Plain, recently "aced" the 17th hole at George Wright . . . He was playing alone but Eddie Cooney, another ex-serviceman who was on the 12th hole, saw the ball drop into the cup and verified the feat . . . Bill Partridge, who was the greenskeeper at the Blue Hill Country Club for over 20 years, died during the off season . . . So Louie Pearo, who worked for old Bill for 17 years, was given the job . . . Some of the greens at Blue Hill were winter killed but they are coming back in grand style under the watchful eyes of Pearo, Johnny Ford and the greens committees, comprising of Pres. B. E. Morse, Herb McPhee and Ben Jaques.

Henry Homan, brother of Johnny, pro at the Leo Martin Memorial Golf Club at Riverside, has purchased the Lake Sunapee Country Club, one of the most beautiful layouts in the North country . . . George Apple, formerly at Bear Hill Golf Club, is the pro at Sagamore Springs and well on his way to a great season . . . The new postwar balls will be in the pro shops on May 20 . . . Hago Harrington, coach of the Olympics hockey club, has a fine driving range at Kimball's, Lynnfield . . . Two amateur-pro tournament listed for the Weston Golf Club next Monday has been shifted to Woodland . . . The shift was necessary because Paul Wanberg, the Weston greenskeeper, suffered a heart attack last week.

The Toy Town Tavern will sponsor an amateur-pro Met style tournament on June 17th . . . Gene Mosher will be on hand to welcome the visiting teams . . . Jim Fogerty is back at Myopia Hunt Club . . . The Dean twins, sons of the late Tom Dean, formerly at Myopia, are in the golf game but on the mechanical end . . . Tom, Jr., and Jack were in the Air Corps, and the former is the foreman at Essex County, the latter at Tedesco.

Braves vs. Giants Game Under Arcs Get Green Light

Fuel Administrator Edward Barry flashed the green light for the Braves-Giants game under floodlights Saturday night at Braves Field with the announcement that it would be a saving of coal to keep the game on the schedule.

A conference with Edison Light officials by Barry proved that the advance ticket sale for the first big league night game in the Hub would constitute an unquestionable reduction in the consumption of electricity.

The new order on train schedules from Washington, D. C., will not affect transportation of either the Braves or the Red Sox. Both teams use regularly scheduled "limited" trains whose schedules will not be affected. The Braves will be back in Boston Friday night. The Sox leave tomorrow for New York at 7 p. m.

Friar Sluggers At Heights Today

Fred Maguire, Boston College baseball mentor, named Bob Blakeney to hurl against the Providence Friars this afternoon at Alumni Field, in the first ball game to be played at the Heights since June, 1943.

The Friars come to the Hub with the reputation of being the hardest hitting club in New England collegiate circles, by virtue of their triumph over Jack Barry's Holy Cross nine that failed to withstand the 15-hit onslaught of the invaders. Against four H. C. tossers, every man in the Providence lineup collected at least one hit.

Javery Tested Against Cubs

CHICAGO, May 8 — Manager Billy Southworth of the Braves was ready to settle one of his pitching question marks as he invaded Wrigley Field a sad man after dropping three out of four to his former team, the St. Louis Cardinals, to tangle with the National League Champion Cubs.

Al Javery, who was brought along very slowly because of ailments, got Southworth's nod to take the hill against Wyse, Charlie Grimm's selection.

What Javery does will in all probability decide his future as a member of the Braves.

Many Boston rooters are behind the slim slinger to make an impression because they remember when he set down the best in the senior league with ease. They think he can regain that form and will be a great help to Southworth in his first year as a Tribe manager.

Southworth believes that "Jav" has the stuff on the strength of his showing last week when given a relief assignment for an inning. He pitched a hitless inning, and has been tough on the hitters during batting practice during the past week.

Johnny Sain didn't have it in the St. Louis finale, being battered out of the box in the first inning on a five run barrage . . . Emerson Roser, who was purchased from the Yankees last week, relieved Sain and was touched by the remaining Cards run . . . Braves' rally in the seventh failed when Tommy Holmes drove home two runs with a double . . . final score was 6-4.

College Baseball 'Best Since 1926'

HAMILTON, N. Y., May 8 (AP)—College baseball is experiencing its biggest season since 1926, competitively and at the gate, Colgate Coach Eppie Barnes said today.

Barnes described the boom as nationwide on the basis of personal observations and reports from college association members.

Hub Indianamen to Honor Bo McMillin

A. N. (Bo) McMillin, head football coach at Indiana University, is coming back to Boston next week. Thousands of football fans will remember a previous visit, when he played with the Praying Colonels of Center College, and made the winning touchdown against Harvard. Bo McMillin made all - American that year, and now he's King of the football world in the Middle West because he carried Indiana to her first Western Conference Championship in 1945.

Bo McMillin

The redoubtable Bo is an interesting character. He has a mane of white hair now, but his chubby countenance is unchanged. His opponents in Middle West competition say he has all the drive and alertness of a man still of football age.

Coaches hereabouts hold the Indiana mentor in high respect. Dick Harlow of Harvard and Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth are his particular admirers.

When Harlow was invited to sit at the head table at the Indiana dinner, to be held at the Statler May 14, he replied: "Try to keep me away."

And Tuss McLaughry, it develops, was once Bo's roommate. Where and when, he didn't say—certainly not at Center College.

Indiana alumni here number about 150. They have invited alumni of other Western Conference schools to take tables at the dinner. One feature will be movies of the Indiana-Michigan game, the first to be won against a Conference team in the 1945 campaign.

Regular Trains, Autos To Get Fans to Track

By JACK CONWAY

THE TEMPORARY cancellation of race track specials to Narragansett Park as of Friday on account of the acute fuel shortage was not a surprise to people in racing . . .

Judge Dooley

Once the transportation ban was issued against the circus it was felt it was only a matter of a short time before race track specials would be banned . . . With thousands of passenger trains being discontinued for the period of the emergency, the ODT felt it would be subjected to severe criticism if it permitted horse players to roll along merrily in special trains to their favorite track.

With regular trains running from Boston to Providence and to Pawtucket, President James E. Dooley of Narragansett Park is of the opinion there will not be much of a reduction in attendance figures . . . Thousands of autos are in the parking lots at Narragansett Park each afternoon . . . Persons who get to the track by auto would be enough to keep the handle up around the $1,000,000 mark.

It is not believed that ball clubs will reach a point where their star players will have to hitch hike around the circuit, but it is a certainty that unless the coal strike is settled quickly that the major league clubs will be obliged to put up with some of the travel inconveniences that featured war days.

New England Fuel Administrator Burke says there will not be any government interference with the Braves-Giants night game at National League Park on Saturday night . . . Boston Edison declares it will only require a small amount of fuel to furnish the lighting at National League Park . . . The bright young men who figure the amount of coal needed to furnish a certain amount of lighting assert that with 30,000 persons sitting under the lights at National League Park rather than using the lights at home, the fuel shortage will be helped . . . The same argument may well be advanced if the fuel shortage still exists when Wonderland and Raynham Park are prepared to open their June meetings . . . A dog track, with the state its principal partner, is entitled to as much consideration as a ball club.

With no lights at Fenway Park, Messrs. Yawkey and Collins have not any lighting problems while their club is at home, but, of course, will experience it while the team is traveling in the West . . . Since the Sox have been winning, people have managed to get away from their afternoon chores to sit in and watch Ted Williams, Johnny Pesky, et al.

In the press box at Narragansett Park I found Dave Wilson, Eli Chiat, Sidney Robinson, Bobby Goldman and Eddie Mack listening to Jimmy Britt's account of the Sox-Browns game over WNAC as the noble nags paraded to the post . . . Wilson played baseball and basketball when he attended high school in Baltimore . . . In Florida he didn't miss attending a ball game every Sunday, while he also turns out for the Sunday ball games in Boston.

Johnston Colorful Figure

JIMMY JOHNSTON, who died from a heart attack in New York at the age of 70, was one of the most colorful figures in the history of boxing . . . He recently leased Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn, for summer boxing and was planning a series of major fistic attractions . . . Jimmy has known that his number was up since the Louis-Pastor bout in Detroit . . . Pastor might have won from Louis if he had stood off and boxed the champion . . . Instead, he paraded to close quarters, punched it out with the champion and lost on a kayo.

This writer visited Johnston and Pastor in their hotel suite after the bout . . . Johnston was resting on a divan, while Pastor was insisting he would stop Louis if they met again . . . I mentioned to Johnston that I thought Pastor used poor judgment when he tried to outpunch Louis.

"I have been having trouble with my 'ticker'," said Jimmy, "and I didn't have the strength to argue with Pastor when he insisted on sacrificing his boxing skill and trying to outpunch Louis . . . I have not been in good health recently."

By careful living and plenty of rest, Johnston staged a physical comeback, and was prepared to step in as the No. 1 challenger for Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club when his "ticker" gave out . . . Johnston was of the old school of boxing . . . he directed the training of his boxers, while he also handled their matchmaking as well as their publicity . . . Johnston had a keen pen and a sharp tongue . . . He could put the fire under an ordinary match and cause it to draw thousands of extra dollars

Garden Matchmaker

JOHNSTON ONCE fought the New York Garden and Max Schmeling with Jack Sharkey his top card . . . Johnston won, and he was named matchmaker of the House that Tex built . . . After a stormy career as matchmaker at the Garden, the veteran, who was affectionately known to his legion of friends as the "Boy Bandit," went out on his own again . . . Johnston was always at his best when operating as an independent promoter

While Johnston has at times fought Mike Jacobs when on opposite sides of promotions, they have frequently worked hand-in-hand . . . Johnston recognized Jacobs' wide experience and uncanny ability in making seating arrangements at boxing shows and the proper handling of tickets . . . Jimmy and Mike had both come up the hard way in boxing and so had an appreciation of each other's ability.

Johnston over the years made frequent appearances in Boston . . . Johnston managed Ted (Kid) Lewis when the latter engaged in his great battles with Jack Britton . . . Johnston was a natural as a promoter, but I always thought he got his greatest kick out of life when touring the country with a top boxer like Ted Lewis . . . Born in Liverpool and brought up in New York, Johnston took boxers under his direction to all parts of the world . . . He was an internationalist in sports and would reach out and bring Phil Scott, British heavyweight, or some other foreign star to the United States when there was an opportunity to secure a rich purse.

Boxing and all sports are heavy losers as a result of the passing of Jimmy Johnston.

3 Boys Star Despite Handicaps

By MIKE GILLOOLY

There's no such thing as a handicap as far as schoolboy athletes are concerned! When a kid in school loves a sport, there's nothing can stop him from participating. Possibly, he may not make the varsity teams, but in three brave instances this seasons boys have taken over first string positions after gallant uphill struggles to become leading lights to their teammates.

Just consider the case of Joe Reynolds of Roxbury Memorial High School.

Reynolds, as a youngster, was a victim of infantile paralysis which left his left arm virtually helpless. Last season he hit and fielded so well that he was promoted from the JV's to the varsity for the final game of the season. This year he resumed his place in the outfield, following the same procedure that Pete Gray uses in fielding a ball.

This past winter, Reynolds captained the hockey team, managed to score a couple of goals from his defense berth. Last fall he alternated at center on the football team—starting at least half the games for the Roxbury eleven.

Then, there's the case of George Breault of Lowell High School.

Breault, like Reynolds, was a victim of infantile which left him lame. In spite of this, the youngster made the squad last season and this spring, Coach Stan Stoklosa had no other choice for the hot corner than his co-captain—a kid who earned every inch of his first string rating. He gets around third base in great style, and his hitting has been just what the coach would have ordered.

Then, there's Dick Cox of Milton High School—a youngster who just recently took over a No. 1 infield rating.

Cox, too, was young when he accidentally lost two fingers of his left hand — a fact which stung more because he was a natural lefty. Still, right now, he's rated as one of the most promising players on the Milton squad by Coach Bob Osborne. His two middle fingers are missing on his throwing hand but still he has expert control and plenty of "steam" behind his pitches.

At the start of the season, Coach Osborne was so impressed with Cox that he tried him as a pitcher, but now the sophomore is listed as the regular first sacker.

Shades of Bunny Cronin, former Cambridge Latin and Boston College star of years past, who was a stickout although he wore a brace on his leg!

Boston College High has filled a pair of open dates on the football schedule for next fall—Sept. 28 at North Quincy, and Oct. 4 at LaSalle of Providence, R. I. . . . the two will replace Cambridge Latin and Chevrus of Portland, Me. . . . the Eaglets will be playing baseball without Capt. Walter Murphy, catcher, who broke a finger in practice . . . Tom McLaughlin is his replacement.

Wonder how Coach Jim Lyons of Newburyport High is making out with spiked shoes for his squad? . . . He was trying to borrow some because the school couldn't purchase any.

Tom Hines, director of the State Meet, agrees with Brother Gerard of St. Joan's Prep that the Catholic high schools would be better off in their own meet at Danvers, May 25 . . . The conflict in dates is unavoidable . . . There'll be plenty of time in the future for the Catholic highs to go after the State championships.

NE League Opens Tonight After Lapse of 13 Years

By FRED HOEY

After a lapse of 13 years, the New England League, one of the oldest baseball loops in the country, will renew activities tonight with four games on the docket.

Nashua palys at Lynn; Lawrence entertains Pawtucket; Fall River visits Providence; Manchester, N. H. takes on Portland.

All baseball parks, with the exception of Portland, are equipped with lights. Portland expects to have lights installed June 1.

The league, covering the eight cities, has the largest population of any league in the country below Class AA rating.

It also has the greatest total park seating capacity with the exception of the Class A Eastern loop, which exceeds the N. E. by a scant 2000.

This compact circuit permits fans to follow their favorite team from one city to another. The schedule calls for one day and one night stands instead of the customary three-game series. This enables the fans to see the visiting clubs more often.

Under the excellent direction of the late Tim Nurnane and the late Jake Morse, both famous baseball writers, the "Little Old New England League" as Tim affectionately referred to it, was the breeding place for ball players who went on to the majors and became outstanding stars.

Among some of the older stars who graduated to big league prominence were Hugh Duffy, Billy Hamilton, Larry Lajoie, Rabbit Maranville, Steve O'Neill, present Detroit manager, Bill Abstein, Mel Wolfgang, "Lena" Blackburn, George "Lefty" Tyler, Bob Ganley, Chick Shorten, Kid Anderson, Red McGovern, Ralph Cutting, Hugh McQuillen, Christy Mathewson, Waite Hoyt and Frank Hogan.

The 16th annual field trial of Plymouth County's Bird Dog Club will be contested Saturday and Sunday on liberated quail, at the Falmouth Airport, where scores of clever canines will vie for the trophies. Events on the opening day include the Amateur Derby and Amateur Puppy Stake, with the Amateur All-Age class set for the Sabbath. Entries close tomorrow, and may be telephoned in to Secretary H. J. Walker, E. Bridgewater 87.

This trial is under new national rules and entered in FDSB. The Derby and All-Age winners will be eligible to run in amateur championships . . . The judges are Don Fullerton, Dr. H. C. Plaisted, William Yundt, Leon Greer, and W. Enos Phillips.

To reach the airport, take Route 28 over the Cape Cod Canal, proceeding a short way beyond Camp Edwards, turning on to the Hatchville rd. Markers will serve as guides from this point.

ANGLING ANGLES: The salmon are really starting to strike in Lake Sebago, Maine . . . According to local sportsmen, who spent the week-end at Migis Lodge, at least 18 big babies, averaging around 3½ pounds, were brought in to this rendezvous Sunday afternoon, during a heavy downpour . . . Mr. and Mrs. Nonnay Fay, Newton, boated three; James Barry, Waban, hooked three, as well, and Bob Whitney, Windsor, Ct., tied into four . . . Numerous anglers tried their luck here, despite unfavorable weather . . . A warm spell will lure hordes of fish and fishermen.

More news from the Pine Tree State reveals that the ice should vanish from lakes in the Rangeley, Moosehead and Aroostook County regions this week . . . All waters in Washington County are now free of ice. Salmon, trout, and togue fishing are found until early summer in Eastern and Western Grand Lakes, and in East and West Musquash.

CLUB CHATTER: The Danvers Fish and Game Club holds a meeting tomorrow evening, at the Danvers Town Hall, and the entertainment committee is offering a double-header — a sound film, "Fish From Hell," plus a speaker . . . A gift table and refreshments are other attractions . . . All skeet and trap shooters are expected to attend the gathering, for a big event is planned for these enthusiasts Sunday afternoon . . . Glynns Play In East Boston

Following their edging of the favored Roslindale Royals last night, in which Art Carmen pivoted the second triple play in Park League history, the Glynn Club goes into East Boston for the first time tonight, facing Quality Baking at American Legion Park.

The now-famed play occurred when Carmen caught a line drive by Joe Gerrard and doubled man leaving second on perfect throw which was then relayed to first for the third out.

The Royals will go against the St. Thomas outfit at Carolina ave., while the Tom Owens Club, having measured the McCarthys, 10-0, last night at Neponset, will attempt to do it again at C. J. Lee Park at City Point.

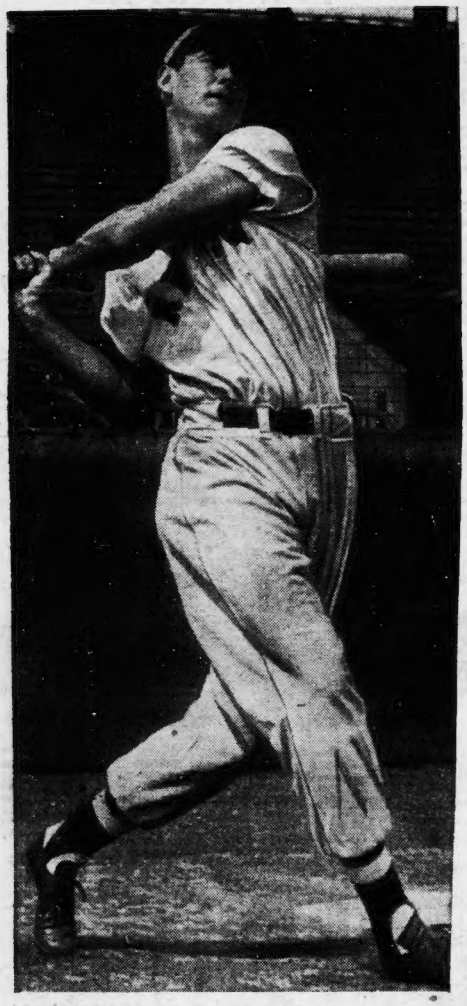
Sox Send Harris After No. 13

STORY ON PAGE 31



Fabulous—Raising his batting average to .423 with three hits, including his fifth homer of the season, in five times at bat yesterday, Teddy Williams, incredible Sox' hitting sensation, trains his big stick toward adding a new list of batting laurels to his credit today, against Jimmy Dykes' Chicago White Sox at Fenway Park.

Guilty of Murder—Nicholas Trinchillo, 16 (right), collapses in a chair in New York's Kings County Court after a jury returned a verdict of second-degree murder against him in the lead pipe slaying of a 73-year-old woman storekeeper. His attorney talks to court clerk (left), following the finding. The boy will be sentenced later.

Hyde Park High School Regiment Drills—Color bearers of the Hyde Park High School regiment of the Boston High School Cadets lead the drum and bugle corps during a competitive drill session at Stony Brook Reservation, Hyde Park. The crack corps gave an exhibition in addition to their competitive meet. Individual awards were made to outstanding cadets.
